ARMISTICE DAY OBSERVANCE UNITES EMPIRE

CAPITALS CELEBRATE ARMISTICE

London, Ottawa and Washington to Observe Day of Ending of Great War With Fitting Ceremonies

KING AND PRINCES WILL LAY WREATHS

Service in Ottawa Victory Tower—Canadian Soldiers Go to Unveiling in Washington

LONDON, Nov. 10.—The arrangements for the Armistice Day celebration here tomorrow are on the lines of those in previous years. In front of the Cenotaph a hollow square will be formed by detachments of the Royal Navy, the army, the air force, the mercantile marine and associations of veterans.
Shortly before 11 o'clock, the King, attended by the Prince of Wales and his brothers, will appear from the front door of the Home Office, which directly faces the Cenotaph. The King will place a wreath at the base and wreaths will also be placed on behalf of other members of the royal family.
As Big Ben strikes the hour, the two minutes' silence will be observed. All road traffic will stop everywhere in London. At the Cenotaph a short service will follow, conducted by Right Rev. Dr. Winnington Ingram, Bishop of London.

AT OTTAWA
OTTAWA, Nov. 10.—Two minutes of silence, generally observed throughout Canada, will usher in at 11 o'clock tomorrow the ninth anniversary of the signing of the Armistice, which terminated the four years of conflict in the Great War of 1914-18.

At that hour the wheels of industry will stop, telephones will cease to operate and where possible, vehicular traffic will halt.

MRS. VANDERBILT, JR., DOES NOT APPRECIATE NEWSPAPERMAN'S LIFE

RENO, Nevada, Nov. 10.—Cornelius Vanderbilt, Jr., filed his suit for divorce in the district court here today against Rachel Vanderbilt, and a minute later for Mrs. Vanderbilt filed an answer and cross complaint in which she alleged desertion.

Vanderbilt, in his complaint, charged that his wife discouraged his newspaper work and wanted him to enter some business that gave him more time for social affairs. Her objections to his newspaper work, he said, caused their differences and they finally separated more than a year ago.

It was reported here Mrs. Vanderbilt will file depositions to prove her charge of desertion and that Vanderbilt will not contest her charges and probably will permit the decree to go to his wife.

Mrs. Vanderbilt is a half-sister to Martin Littleton, prominent New York attorney. Vanderbilt formerly was a newspaper publisher and lives in New York.

Equal Suffrage Likely to Help Conservatives

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Women in general are more conservative than men in the opinion of Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill, Chancellor of the Exchequer, who told a crowded meeting of Conservatives at the Constitutional Club today that they need not be afraid of the political consequences of extending the vote to women at twenty-one.

Personally, Mr. Churchill said, he would have been glad if action on the equal suffrage question could have been put off until a later period, but he added:

"If you take a thousand men and a thousand women at random, it is my personal view that on the whole you will find there is a larger percentage of conservatives among the thousand women than among the thousand men."

LORDS DEBATE DISARMAMENT

Failure of Geneva Naval Conference Described by Critic as Bar to Disarmament in General

DECLARATION OF PARIS ATTACKED

LONDON, Nov. 10.—The debate in the House of Lords on the failure of the recent tripartite naval conference at Geneva, was instituted today by Lord Wemyss.

The failure of the Geneva conference, so far as Great Britain was concerned, Lord Wemyss said, was not entirely eliminated if it did not entirely eliminate any chance in the direction of general disarmament, because all of Great Britain's efforts were bound up in the sea.

He proceeded to criticize the Declaration of Paris restricting belligerents' rights on the sea, by which, he said, Great Britain was bound while the United States and Japan were not signatories thereto.

DECLARATION DEFENDED
Lord Stanhope, in 1918, replying on behalf of the government, defended the Declaration of Paris and said it was impossible for Great Britain to withdraw therefrom unless she agreed that a treaty with no time limit could be denounced at any time—a dangerous precedent to adopt.

The United States had never agreed to it, because they objected to the abolition of privateering.

Lord Stanhope reminded the House of Lords that it was in the House of Commons that Lord Stanhope thought it worth while to surrender her right to captured goods under a neutral flag if, in return, she got rid of privateering.

Lord Stanhope added that Lord Wemyss had raised questions of great delicacy which, obviously, did not lend themselves to debate in Parliament.

CAROLIST PLOT TO BE EXPOSED

RUMANIAN GOVERNMENT WILL ENDEAVOR TO LAY BARE CONSPIRACY FORMED

Bucharest Said to Be Laughing at Flare in Case of Most Recent Arrest

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Nov. 10.—Former Crown Prince Carol's effort for the restoration of his rights to the Rumanian throne will be laid bare during the coming weeks as far as the Rumanian Government can do so. A former Under Secretary of Finance, M. Manolescu, went on trial today before a court-martial, charged with conspiracy to bring Carol back to Rumania to replace the little King Michael, his six-year-old son.

Argument of counsel took up the court's time today.

ALLEGED FIASCO
BUCHAREST, Nov. 10.—Bucharest laughed today at the disclosure of a so-called secret code which the Rumanian secret police found in the possession of Lieutenant Teodoru when he was arrested with his wife a few days ago as a second Carolist plotter while clandestinely crossing the frontier.

The code consisted of a list of names engraved in silver cigarette cases. The names were those of friends who had given the case to Teodoru as a birthday gift. The police had described the case as a "sensational document."

LINDBERGH RECALLED TO ACTIVE SERVICE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 10.—An army order calling Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh to active duty at Selfridge Field, Mich., was published today by the War Department and shows that he is to remain on active service with the first pursuit group until December 31, when he goes back to his inactive reserve status.

The order was effective yesterday.

CENOTAPH TO BE SCENE OF CEREMONIES

Exercises to Mark Ninth Anniversary of Signing of Armistice Will Be Held This Morning

OUTLINE OF COMMEMORATION

Time Gun at Barracks Will Be Sole Recognized Signal, to Prevent Confusion of Former Years

VICTORIA'S observance of Armistice Day, the ninth anniversary of the close of the Great War, will centre upon the Cenotaph in Parliament Square, where a formal service will be held and flowers will be laid at the base of the city's monument to the dead.

Buglers from the Sixteenth Canadian Scottish will be stationed at the City Hall, and from the Royal Canadian Navy at Douglas and Fort streets, to sound a warning of the hour.

When the time gun is fired at 11 a. m. these buglers will sound the "Last Post" and the citizens will be impressively reminded of the two minutes' silence requested by His Majesty the King, and by the Dominion Government. The conclusion of the silence will be marked by the sounding of the "Carry on."

The following programme has been arranged for the service to be held at the Cenotaph:

11:00 a. m.—Time gun fired. The sounding of "Last Post." Two minutes' silence.

11:02 a. m.—Sounding of "Carry on." Short address by Rev. J. W. Leighton.

Placing of wreaths at the base of the memorial by governmental representatives, organizations and others.

Short prayer by Rev. J. S. Patterson.

Officials and organizations having representatives at the service are requested to be in position at five minutes to eleven.

It was announced last evening that representatives of the school will be present on the occasion. At the schools the Union Jack will be placed for the period of the service.

The Armistice Period Committee makes a final request that no bells or sirens should be used in any way to mark the day.

ITALIAN AUTHOR GETS NOBEL PRIZE FOR 1926

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 10.—The Swedish Academy today awarded the 1926 Nobel Prize for literature to the Italian author, Signora Grazia Deledda, the second woman to win the prize.

The 1927 award was postponed until next year.

Brigand and feudal life of her native Sardinia have furnished much of the subject matter of Grazia Deledda's fiction. Her novels are virtually unknown in North America.

The previous woman recipient of the Nobel Prize (literary) was Selma Lagerlof, Swedish novelist.

CAPTAIN GILES PLANS TO HOP OFF SATURDAY

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 10.—Captain Frederick Giles, Australian aviator, plans to hop off alone from Mills Field, San Francisco, for Wellington, New Zealand, about 9:30 a. m. Saturday. Giles made this announcement today after he completed a gasoline consumption test with his Hees-Bluebird plane.

A telegram, wishing good luck, was received by the flyer today from Charles Hull, member of the party of Australians who plan to fly the Puker plane Southern Cross from San Francisco to Australia next month some time.

The Southern Cross is in Santa Monica, being overhauled and fitted for its transpacific flight.

Giles flew here from Detroit, Michigan, arriving after several mishaps.

Nobel Physics Prize Goes to Americans

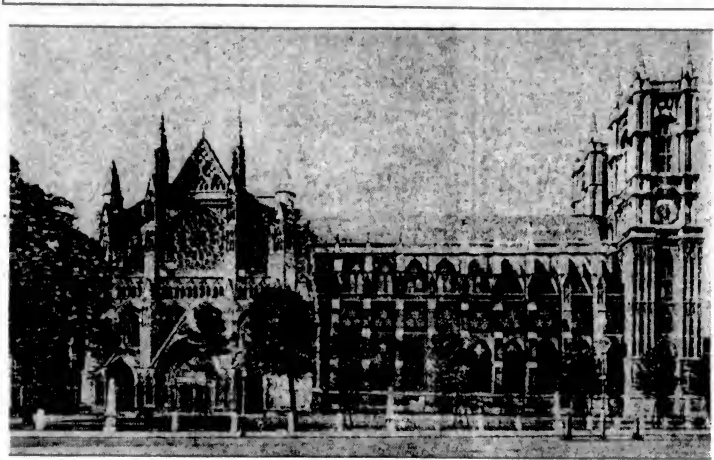

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Nov. 10.—By decision of the Academy of Sciences today the Nobel Prize for Physics for 1927 will be divided between Professor Arthur Compton, of Chicago, and Professor Charles T. Wilson, of Cambridge University.

Professor Compton, whose researches have been devoted largely to the X-Ray and radio activity, receives the award for the discovery of the Compton process.

Professor Wilson is awarded his part of the prize for his method of observing electrified particles.

The Academy of Sciences decided not to award the Nobel Chemistry Prize until 1928.

Where Tomb of Unknown Warrior Lies

WESTMINSTER ABBEY—An Armistice Day service for the whole British Empire will be held today in the ancient abbey, in presence of the tomb of the Unknown Warrior, and surrounded by burial places of eminent kings and mighty men who had great part in making centuries of British history. In that "temple of silence and reconciliation" where the empires of twenty generations lie buried, representatives of the Empire will gather today.

Armistice Day Services Broadcasted

OTTAWA, Nov. 10.—Through the government radio branch, a general Armistice programme broadcast from London, England, will be given to listeners-in throughout the Dominion. Montreal and Ottawa broadcasting stations CFCF and CNRO will be connected direct by land wires to the Canadian Marconi Company beam receiving station at Yamachiche, Quebec, and will rebroadcast the London programme. Other Canadian stations will attempt to rebroadcast from the short wave signals from London. The London programme will be featured by an address given by the Prince of Wales.

Armistice Day will be commemorated in Ottawa with a short but impressive service in the Memorial Chamber of the Victory Tower. The Ottawa ceremony will be held at 3:15 p. m. Eastern standard time, or 12:15 Victoria time.

Tomorrow night, the Prince of Wales will broadcast from Albert Hall a message in keeping with the day. The Bishop of London will then lead in the prayers. The audience will form a torchlight procession later to join another demonstration from Hyde Park, and will march to the cenotaph, where they will place wreaths and sing hymns, and the trumpeters of the House hold Cavalry will sound the Last Post.

MOSCOW NOT HARMONIOUS

Opposition Stages Demonstration in Streets of Russian Capital on Revolution Anniversary

TROTSKY BANNER FREELY DISPLAYED

MOSCOW, Nov. 10.—Details of counter demonstration which occurred on the tenth anniversary celebration, November 7, of the Bolshevik revolution are just beginning to filter through a mass of reports.

Caricatures showing the Russian Communist party imprisoned behind bars were posted on walls in various sections of the city by oppositionists.

During the celebration marching columns were showered with oppositionist pamphlets.

Participants in the counter celebration were made up of students and oppositionist Communists, while nonparty workers proved the most loyal in resisting vigorously all efforts at counter demonstration.

TROTSKY PORTRAIT

The greatest excitement started when the Trotsky Gate at the Kremlin, where Leon Trotsky and Leon B. Kamenoff, both of whom have lost their former prestige in Communist circles, appeared at the celebration.

They were late today found guilty of the murder of Otto Boech, who died from injuries received in a C.P.R. freight train near Ruby Creek, July 22, by an Amtrak Court jury, and were sentenced to death on January 27 by Mr. Justice W. A. Macdonald.

In the case of Burgess the jury's verdict added a plea for leniency, and in the case of McKenna a strong recommendation for mercy.

Bosch died from injuries received when he and another youth were attacked by Burgess and McKenna. Robbery was said to have been the motive.

Housebreaker Traced By Footprints in Snow

WINNIPEG, Nov. 10.—Albert E. Tuttle was sentenced in city police court today to three years in the penitentiary on two charges of housebreaking with intent to rob.

Tuttle's footprints in the snow revealed his capture by police who trailed the man from a house where Tuttle had been frightened by occupants who had overheard the man's entry. He was followed to another home where he was arrested.

LATE SOCKEYE RUSH

VANCOUVER, Nov. 10.—An exceptionally late rush of sockeye is reported on the Fraser River. Although hundreds of thousands of salmon passed through Hilly's Gate during the last few days, there is a slight congestion below this point at present, it is said.

Lord Byng Talks At Celebration Of Canadians

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Three hundred Canadians who saw service in the Great War again celebrated Armistice Day here by joining together and singing popular choruses of 1914-18 and listening to cheers speeches with a heap of reminiscences from Lord Birkenhead, Secretary of State for India, Viscount Byng and Major-General John E. B. Seely, Secretary of State for War in 1914.

General Garnett Hughes, son of the late Sir Sam Hughes, former Canadian Minister of Militia, presided.

"I am just as keen a Canadian as any of you," declared Viscount Byng, who had a specially vociferous greeting.

"All Canada wants is a few more men like you," declared Viscount Byng, who had a specially vociferous greeting.

The spirit of the corps is still found everywhere in Canada. Let the whole country maintain a spirit of unity, comradeship and pride in Canada's birthright.

VERDICT GIVEN IN BOSCH CASE

Burgess and McKenna Found Guilty of Murder and Sentenced to Be Hanged

NEW WESTMINSTER, Nov. 10.—John McKenna and George Burgess, young men, were late today found guilty of the murder of Otto Boech, who died from injuries received in a C.P.R. freight train near Ruby Creek, July 22, by an Amtrak Court jury, and were sentenced to death on January 27 by Mr. Justice W. A. Macdonald.

In the case of Burgess the jury's verdict added a plea for leniency, and in the case of McKenna a strong recommendation for mercy.

Bosch died from injuries received when he and another youth were attacked by Burgess and McKenna. Robbery was said to have been the motive.

Prince Baptized

ROME, Nov. 10.—The King and other members of the Royal Family today witnessed the baptizing of the second son of Prince Mafalda, Prince Philip of Hesse. The child was baptized Enrico.

The King acted as godfather.

Nova Scotia Apples

HALIFAX, Nov. 10.—Apples shipped from this port so far this year amount to 137,587 barrels, compared with 171,672 barrels for the same period last year, but it is hoped that by the end of the month the shipment for this season will surpass those of 1926. Better prices obtained for most varieties have had a stimulating effect on business associated with the apple industry.

BANKER WARNS AGAINST BOOM

RETIRING PRESIDENT OF THE BANKERS' ASSOCIATION FEARS OVERSPECULATION

Care Needed to Avoid Reaction—Mr. A. E. Phillips Elected New President

MONTREAL, Nov. 10.—Mr. A. E. Phillips, Toronto, general manager of the Imperial Bank of Canada, was today elected president of the Canadian Bankers' Association in succession to C. E. Neill, retiring after two years' occupancy of the presidential chair. Beaudry Leman was advanced to the senior vice-presidency.

Other officers elected at the annual meeting of the association were: Honorary presidents, Sir Vincent Meredith, Bart., Sir George Burn, Mr. Edson L. Pease and Sir John Aird, vice-presidents, Messrs. J. A. McLeod, J. R. Lamb and C. H. Logan.

"Speculation is undoubtedly being overdone," declared Mr. C. E. Neill, in his retiring address as president.

Mr. Neill remarked "It is inevitable that when business corporations are steadily increasing their earnings and when the prospects of both the individual company and the industry as a whole are excellent, securities should sell at a price commensurate with that justified by immediate earnings."

In a country where great resources are available for development, enthusiasm, if properly restrained, should result in prolonged and reasonably uniform prosperity, but overoptimism concerning the future must eventually be followed by an unfavorable reaction."

Mr. Neill said that investors of small means should be deterred from taking risks which they cannot afford. Redoubled vigilance should be exercised concerning issues of fraudulent securities.

EIGHTEEN YEARS SPENT IN PRISON

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Oscar Slater, now serving a life sentence in a Scottish prison, whose case had been known here as "Britain's Own Sacco-Vanzetti Affair," will be freed soon. Sir John Gilmour, Secretary of Scotland Yard, today issued a statement that Slater, a German Jew and alien, has completed more than eighteen and a half years of his life sentence for murder, and that the Government felt justified in authorizing his release as soon as arrangements were made. Slater was convicted of beating a defenceless old woman to death presumably for the purpose of robbery, but the feeling was so strong that his guilt had not been proved that the sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

Dominion-Provincial Conference Concludes Week of Conversation

Definite Decisions Reached on Points Discussed Are Few or None—Chief Questions Dealt With Are Referred to Further Consideration—Result of Meeting Chiefly Interchange of Views

Federal Finance Minister Objects to Two-Edged Demands of Provinces

OTTAWA, Nov. 10.—Canada's eighth conference of provincial premiers concluded tonight. After fourteen sessions in a period of seven days, all items on the agenda—constitutional, financial, social, and economic—have been fully reviewed. A free interchange of views—provincial and Dominion—have been expressed on some forty subjects; and in many instances, the Federal Government promised to take cognizance of the attitude of the provinces.

Late today, federal subsidies, old "blue sky" legislation, power rights, Alberta and Nova Scotia coal development, and the imposition of the last tax on alcoholic offenders by amending the Criminal Code, were considered.

For the Dominion Government, Hon. J. A. Robb, Minister of Finance, presented a statement respecting Federal subsidies and the financial problems of the Dominion and the provinces. "The whole question," commented Mr. Robb, "must be felt, given thorough scrutiny before commitment of any nature should be given, and in the light of all representations made at this conference we will carefully consider the problems."

Approximately $100,000,000 annually, Mr. Robb estimated, was involved in the recommendations submitted by all provinces either in the expenditure or in the drying up of sources of revenue. "The recommendations," he commented, "are double-edged. First there is the demand for increased expenditures by the Dominion Government, and, on the other hand, that we should withdraw from certain fields of taxation and revenue."

OLD AGE PENSIONS
Old age pensions were introduced by Hon. Peter Hensman, who argued that all provinces should adopt the Federal legislation. The discussion showed an inclination on the part of the majority of the provinces to bear the Federal Government make its contribution without involving the provinces in a similar obligation.

SEVERAL PROPOSALS
Maritimes, whose population contains a larger proportion of elderly people, contended that the additional burden would be too great to bear. British Columbia, though, characterized the Federal act as "a real boon."

Legislation by the Dominion Government will be introduced to regulate the shares and securities of Dominion companies, declared Hon. Lucien Cannon, Solicitor General, in presenting the report of a subcommittee on "blue sky" legislation and other phases of company law.

OTHER ISSUES
Two other important recommendations were made by this subcommittee: (1) That with respect to insurance, loan and trust companies, a careful study would be made with a view of reaching a satisfactory basis for co-operation with the provinces; (2) that with respect to incorporation of companies, the Department of the Secretary of State would follow its present principle of refusing incorporation to companies which were purely provincial in scope and to inquire of applicants whether they had been at any time refused incorporation by a province.

On the question of indirect taxation, Attorney-General Mansfield, of British Columbia, advocated that the whole subject "should be made one of general inquiry, that the ship of state could be trimmed, not at one end, but from end to end."

Premier J. B. M. Baxter of New Brunswick urged a clearer definition of the words "indirect taxation" in the Canadian constitution, and was supported by Mr. Mansfield.

A national fuel and steel policy for Canada was advocated by Hon. G. H. Harrington, Nova Scotia. Premier Brownlee supported the proposal.

CONSTABLE SHOT BY CHINESE DIES

Before Death He Identifies Picture of Leung Chong as Assailant—Search Continues

VANCOUVER, Nov. 10.—Constable Ernest Sargent, of the Vancouver police force, shot by an unknown Chinese assailant early Saturday morning, died tonight at the general hospital. Sargent was shot in the abdomen by the Chinese when the officer asked him to explain his presence in the vicinity of Eleventh Avenue and Alder Street at 4:30 o'clock. Without warning the Chinese fired two shots at the officer, one of them taking effect.

Constable Sargent joined the Vancouver police department three years ago, coming here from Saskatchewan, where he had served as a police officer for a short time.

A warrant charging murder has been issued against Leung Chong, twenty-eight-year-old Chinese and an alleged gunman. Two hours before Sargent died he declared that a picture of Leung was an exact likeness of his assailant.

A Chinese answering to the description of Leung was seen on the station platform at Revelstoke recently, and police of that town are endeavoring to locate the man. He did not purchase a railway ticket and no record of him on outbound trains can be found, so city police have been informed.

All points east and west of Revelstoke have been notified to keep a close lookout for the wanted man.

NEW PLANS FOR VANCOUVER HARBOR

VANCOUVER, Nov. 10.—Certain improvements in Vancouver have revived a proposal to replace the Second Narrows Bridge by a dam and a series of locks to create a fresh-water basin in the North Arm. It is reported.

W. G. Swan, consulting engineer for a company which, it is said, will be known as the Burrard Causeways, Limited, is in Ottawa in connection with the scheme.

SERVICE AT MONS

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Two hundred of the "Old Contemptibles" left London today to attend a special Armistice Day service tomorrow at Mons, Belgium, where two minutes' silence will be observed on the earliest battleground on the outskirts of the town.

Belgian buglers will sound the "Last Post" at the Armistice Day service at Mons.

On Saturday the British soldiers will lay wreaths on the tomb of Belgium's Unknown Soldier.

On Sunday a drumhead service will be held at Mons.

MGR. CASSULO VISITS COAST

PAPAL DELEGATE WELCOMED IN VANCOUVER BY CLERGY AND LAITY

Pontifical Mass to Be Celebrated in Holy Rosary Cathedral on Sunday Morning

VANCOUVER, Nov. 10.—His excellency Andrea Cassulo, apostolic delegate to Canada and Newfoundland, arrived in Vancouver today. He was met by a large delegation of clergy and laity, headed by Rev. Father J. B. McDonald, vicar-general for Vancouver, and Rev. Father A. K. McIntyre, vicar-general for the interior.

The papal delegate was accompanied by his personal secretary, Monsignor Desrosiers, and Monsignor John J. Blais. His party will remain in Vancouver until Monday, when it proceeds to Victoria.

His excellency was escorted to the Sacred Heart convent, his headquarters during the visit, where he celebrated low mass at 8 a. m. at the convent chapel.

After a short rest he proceeded to Vancouver College, where a private reception for students and the Christian Brothers was held at 10 a. m. Mr. Justice Denis Murphy spoke on "The Church and Society."

At noon the Christian Brothers were hosted at a luncheon attended by the clergy. His excellency returned to Sacred Heart convent after the luncheon, where a private reception for the Sisters and students had been arranged for 3 o'clock.

The Catholic clergy will entertain at a banquet at 6:30 o'clock. It will be featured by an address of welcome by Rev. Father A. K. McIntyre.

His excellency will make his first public appearance at a reception at the Hotel Vancouver Friday evening. Most Rev. Timothy Casey, Archbishop of Vancouver, and Catholics of the Lower Mainland will welcome the papal delegate. Monsignor Cassulo is expected to make a short address.

The papal blessing will be extended at a children's mass on Saturday morning, and his excellency will assist in the celebration of solemn pontifical mass at Holy Rosary Cathedral, Sunday morning.

COXEY ARMY ON ROMANS' ROAD

Parade of Unemployed Welsh Miners Reaches Bath—Cook Not to Join Till at Swindon

BATH, England, Nov. 10.—Ancient roads built for the war chariots of Julius Caesar led the way for Cook's little army of unemployed into Bath today.

The 400 jobless men collected by A. J. Cook, secretary of the British Miners' Federation, for a 200-mile march to London, was divided into two detachments when it completed its second day's journey. The column departed at lunch time when it proved necessary to serve two messes instead of one from the rolling kitchen that accompanied these men from Wales.

The procession expects to start early in the morning for Chippenham.

Some of the marchers who started yesterday from Wales dropped out at Bristol, but they were replaced by recruits who felt they would be less affected by cold weather and the fatigue of the journey.

Cook, the organizer of the march, who was unable to start with the column because of conferences with other officials of the Miners' Federation who disapproved of the expedition as Communist in origin, expects to join the column at Swindon.

CANON CONDEMNS CHURCH BAZAARS

An Insect and Reflection Upon Congregation, Says Former Vicar of Bolton

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Canon A. P. Gower-Rees, M.C., former vicar of Bolton, Bradford, who has gone to Canada to assume the rectorship of St. George's, Montreal, gave his own reply to the question, "Is Religion Dying?" when he delivered his farewell sermon to the men of his former congregation on the Sunday before he sailed.

"What contribution are those people making who are so ready to say what preachers should or should not do?" asked the Canon. "Thousands of pounds are paid to the altar-bearer. What is paid for an altar preacher? Is he kept alive? Is he provided for? We have been living on the dole religiously. We have been expecting first class things without providing first class support, and in many ways we have got what we deserve."

"I won't have bazaars in my church. I don't believe in them. I regard them as an insult and reflection upon the congregation because they are unable to foot the bill."

Canon Gower-Rees said they must not take half-empty churches to be a sign of religion dying. Those who went to church today went not because it was the fashion but because they liked to go. "We Christians talk about one Lord—We have 200 denominations which cannot agree upon one definite message. The man in the street demands there shall be less squabbling among the churches."

Many hundreds were unable to gain admission when the Canon preached to a mixed congregation in the evening, a queue forming outside three hours before the service began. Corps Commander's Message to the Canadian Legion

General Currie, as Corps Commander in Great War, Gives Armistice Message to Legion

NINE years ago the Armistice put an end to the struggle which was ravaging mankind, and in this Jubilee year of Confederation, we commemorate again our victory and honor our comrades who gave their lives to ensure it.

It seems to me that there is a strange similarity between the spirit of Confederation and the spirit of the Great War. It was the same spirit of sacrifice, of courage, of determination, of the binding tie of their common country. All sectional jealousies were forgotten, all geographical lines in our far-flung Dominion were blotted out. There was neither East nor West in those splendid but tragic days; there was neither border, nor breed nor birth; there was a consciousness of one great homeland, and only pride in the one word "Canadian" which men were without a blush. And so they went forth with joyous optimism, knowing that, while perhaps they were looking for the last time upon the sun, their work would surely not perish. The war was a great testing time for Canada; it was our baptism of fire, but it was likewise our realization of faith in ourselves, of the sacred bonds of country and of belief in the ultimate triumph of our ideals.

Now the men who made Confederation possible sixty years ago were men of similar vision and of similar strength. Their descendants in the Great War were descendants of their flesh but they were likewise descendants of their spirit. Sixty years ago, our ancestors had many difficulties to overcome—difficulties arising out of the widely scattered parts which they were trying to bring together, the diversity of the peoples and the institutions, the barriers of language and the difference of nationality and creed. Tack, patience, courage, tolerance, a submerging of personal desires, self-sacrifice, optimism and serene faith—all these mark the story of nation-building—one of the great lessons in political progress and experiment which Canada has given the world.

But while Confederation was primarily for Canada, it was not for Canada only. Like our part in the Great War, it was for the homeland first, but it was for the Motherland and for the Empire as well. By that union, as in the war, we were made to realize our power and to renew our faith in ourselves and in our country.

Surely on this Memorial Day, in this Jubilee year of Confederation, with our remembrance of our fathers' heroic struggle sixty years ago and with our memories of the great achievements of the men of Canada in the Great War, we must renew our hope and dedicate ourselves anew to the service of our country. Across the space of sixty years and of ten years, clear and calm voices speak to us and to our children telling us to be not afraid of life. It is only by listening to these golden voices, calling us to courage, to unity, to sacrifice if need be, that we can build worthy monuments to their immortal memories.

HON. J. H. KING SENDS MESSAGE

Purpose of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment Department Is Described by Minister

OTTAWA, Nov. 10.—An Armistice Day message issued tonight by Hon. J. H. King, Minister of Soldiers' Civil Re-establishment, refers to ex-service men disabled in the Great War, and says:

"For the help of such it is the privilege of my department to provide service. We try to heal the sick, help the disabled and to so carry out our obligations to those who now suffer because they served. The department is also charged with the duty of caring for the widows and children. It is not always easy to do all that we should like, and sometimes laws and regulations may be too narrow and circumscribed to meet all situations. When this is the case we try to have them amended, for it is the aim of the Government to enact such legislation as will meet as far as possible all needs which should be met by the country as a whole."

"At this time I would convey to the veterans of Canada an expression of my personal appreciation for the co-operation displayed and for the assistance rendered to myself and officers of my department in the conduct of our difficult work."

As the capital of the Dominion, Ottawa will be the centre of the nation's expression of honor and memory to the many who sacrificed their lives in the conflict. A national Armistice memorial service will be held in the Chamber of Memories in the Peace Tower, following which wreaths will be laid at the altar by Premier King, Sir Robert Borden (war-time premier) and Hon. W. M. Phillips, United States Minister to Canada. In the evening a memorial service will be held on Parliament Hill, attended by their excellencies, the Governor-General and Lady Willington.

AT WASHINGTON

TORONTO, Nov. 10.—In full uniform and carrying regulation equipment, a composite unit representing the Canadian Militia Board, took a special train here today for Washington, where they will arrive at 6 a. m. tomorrow to take part in the Armistice Day ceremonies at the Arlington National Cemetery. The unit was composed of the Royal Canadian Regiment from Toronto, and the Royal 22nd of Quebec.

The unit will act as guard of honor when Hon. Vincent Massey dedicates the Memorial Cross of Sacrifice in memory of American citizens who served with the Canadian expeditionary forces, and died in the war. It will be the first British military detachment to carry arms in Washington since the capital was captured by the British during the War of 1812.

CATHLES SORENSON TO PAY DAMAGES

VANCOUVER, Nov. 10.—Litigation in the suit of Davis Log, Raft Patents Company and Davis Ocean Log Rafting Towing Company, of Portland, Ore., which claimed damages for alleged infringement of Canadian patents to construct Davis rafts, has been closed.

Mr. J. G. Richards, solicitor for the companies, announces that Messrs. William E. Cathles and Charles Sorenson, Victoria logging operators, have abandoned their appeal from Mr. Justice W. A. Macdonald's judgment in favor of the Davis companies. Mr. Justice Macdonald enjoined Cathles and Sorenson from infringing plaintiffs' patents and ordered the defendants to pay damages for the infringement.

Armistice Supper At James Bay Church

Following annual custom, James Bay United Church celebrated Armistice week with an Armistice supper, a Wednesday evening, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid. About two hundred people sat down to the well-laden table, on which the decorative motif was the poppy. After supper, Rev. J. P. Westman gave a lecture on "The Irish in Song, Story and Picture," assisted in the illustrative part of the entertainment being Mr. Frank Tupman, tenor, and Miss Mae Mason, contralto, who gave Irish selections, accompanied by the piano by Mr. In. Dilworth, B.C. The key-note was in the chair, and at the close of the evening tendered thanks to those who had contributed to the proceedings.

LEADERS THANK MCBRIDE CLUB

Local Organization Receives Appreciations From Hon. R. B. Bennett and
Hon. S. F. Tolmie

PRESENTATIONS MADE TO OFFICERS

The McBride Conservative Club, following up the passing of resolutions, and the forwarding of them in which that organization went on record as being unitedly behind Hon. R. B. Bennett as leader of the Conservative party in the Dominion, and of the Hon. S. F. Tolmie as leader of the party in the province, has received very kind letters from both these party leaders expressive of their appreciation of the kind sentiments expressed in the letters.

Hon. Mr. Bennett, in his letter to Mr. P. J. Sinnott, the president of the club, wrote as follows:

"I have not had an opportunity until tonight to send you a note of sincere thanks for the very charming message of congratulations you sent me on my election as leader of the Opposition in the House of Commons. Will you please convey to all your members my sincere thanks for their courtesy and consideration."

"I have undertaken a difficult task and assumed heavy responsibilities, but if I present a united front to our opponents and recognize the extent of our obligations to Canada, I am certain we can do much to advance the interests of our country. I shall do my best, comforted and cheered by the wonderful messages of good will which I have received from every part of the Dominion and from men and women regardless of their political affiliations."

"I am highly honored at being made an honorary member of your club which bears the name of that distinguished son of British Columbia, who graduated from the same university as myself, and whose contribution to the national life of his native province will never be forgotten."

"Best wishes to all your members."

"Yours faithfully,"

"R. B. BENNETT."

MESSAGE FROM DR. TOLMIE

A letter which was read at the meeting also was that from Hon. S. F. Tolmie in acknowledgment of a resolution passed and sent to him, expressing the fact that the club was unanimously behind him as Provincial Leader of the Conservative party. Dr. Tolmie wrote as follows:

"I wish you would extend to the McBride Club my deep appreciation of the assistance and support. We will need the co-operation of all clubs and all associations, if we are to succeed at the next general election."

"With my best wishes for the success of your association, I am,

"Yours faithfully,"

"S. F. TOLMIE."

PRESENTATIONS

Another very pleasant feature of the meeting was the presentation by the president, Mr. P. J. Sinnott, on behalf of the club, of mementoes of the club to Mr. Charles Espley and Mr. Henry Callow, late secretary and treasurer, respectively. Each of them was presented with a beautiful reading lamp.

Both recipients responded, thanking the members for their kindness. They expressed their appreciation of the efforts that had been made by the club in the past to further the interests of the party, and assured the members of their readiness in future to be of any assistance possible in the cause of Conservatism.

Interesting addresses were given by Mr. O. J. Boulton and Captain R. P. Matheson. The latter praised the attitude taken by Dr. Tolmie and his sane leadership of the party in the province. Mr. Boulton went into the matter of the administration of Liberal reforms. During the social part of the proceedings, Mrs. Bowden and Mr. Grant delighted the members and visitors with vocal selections. Miss Betty Clair appeared in character dancing.

Refreshments were served, being in the hands of Mrs. Conacher, Mrs. Sinnott, Jr., and Mr. George Turner. The pleasure of the evening was greatly enhanced by Mr. J. H. W. Pindler's capable rendering of accompaniments and dance selections. Among the guests of the evening were the officers of the Central Conservative Association and those of the Sir John A. MacDonald Club.

Man and Brothers Fined for Method Of Guarding Niece

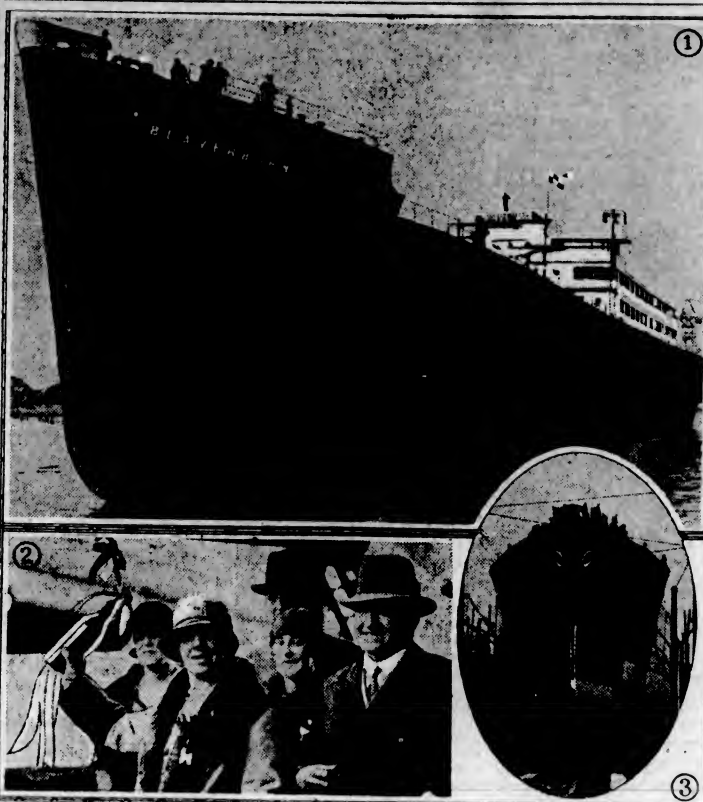

CORNWALL, Ont., Nov. 10.—Declaring that "this thing will not be tolerated under any circumstances," Judge O'Reilly yesterday fined eight prominent local men, the fines totalling $1,180, for assaulting Harold Finerty, aged thirty, in Mountain Township on the evening of August 19. The eight men are William Carlisle, a member of Mountain Township Council; his brothers Lorne, Welland, Robert, Hamilton and Charles Carlisle; Malvin McConnell and Oliver Poulson.

According to evidence submitted, Finerty, while engaged to another girl, was paying attention to William Carlisle's niece. On this occasion, as Finerty was leaving the Carlisle home, he was kidnapped by a band of men, taken to a gravelled road, stripped, and there beaten and kicked.

Canadian Pacific Augments Cargo Fleet

1. Ss. Beaverburn taking the water. 2. Mrs. E. R. Peacock about to christen the Beaverburn; with her is Captain Gillies (right), and Sir George McLaren Brown in background. 3. Ss. Beaverdale gliding down the way.

THE marked growth of ocean trade between Great Britain and Canada via the St. Lawrence route has prompted the Canadian Pacific, in their building estimates for 1927-28, to augment their fleet of freight steamers with five modern twin-screw cargo vessels. The new ships will be of the "Beaver" class and will represent the highest type of express steamer to be used in maintaining a weekly service from London and Continental ports, working strictly to schedule and insuring definite arrival dates.

Three of these steamers have been launched, the Beaverburn, on September 27, at Dumbarton, Scotland, and the Beaverdale the following day at Newcastle-on-Tyne, England, and the Beaverford on October 27. Launching of the remaining two ships was scheduled to take place shortly afterwards. These five vessels constitute five of the ten ships under construction for the Canadian Pacific, the others being four 20,000-ton ocean passenger steamers of the "Duchess" class and the tenth the Princess Elaine, to be placed in the Pacific Coast service of the company. The ten ships will comprise a total gross tonnage of 135,000 tons and will cost approximately $25,000,000.

The new freighters will be operated out of Montreal in Summer, and Saint John in Winter to London and Continental ports on a weekly service. Their speed will be fourteen knots, maintained in all weathers, and the voyages should be made in nine and one-half days. Normally, the steamers will carry a deadweight of about 10,500 tons, but a draft of twenty-seven feet, but should the need arise, as much as 13,000 tons may be carried on the maximum load draft.

The principal dimensions are: Length on waterline, 512 feet, moulded beam, 61 feet 6 inches; depth to upper deck, 40 feet 6 inches, and gross tonnage, about 10,500.

By means of the Beaverburn, Beaverdale and sister ships, the speediest shipping of Canadian fruits and perishable farm produce will be effected. Fruit picked in Ontario can be placed on the London breakfast table in eleven days, or thirteen days later in the case of fruit and vegetables from the British Columbia areas. The same rapidity of shipment will apply to cheese, ham, bacon and lard, and to cereals, lumber, timber and manufactured articles. Modern refrigerating plants are required for ideal transportation of fruit and perishable produce, and such plants are a feature of the new cargo steamers.

British Prime Minister Appeals to Legion

Mr. Baldwin's Recent Welcome to American Legion
European Tour—Anglo-American Relationships

During the recent visit to London of the American Legion tour, right Hon. Stanley Baldwin, proposing a toast at the luncheon, said:

"It is the custom of the American Legion to hold an annual convention, and it was a happy thought in this tenth year to hold a convention in Europe. I have no fault to find with you that you held that convention in Paris. It was the right place. It was in France, and we are grateful to the people of France for the hospitality which they showed to you. It was in no spirit of vainglorious triumph. You came over in the first place to render proper homage to our dead and their dead and our dead. Cheers! You came over, I hope, to see for yourselves rather than to rely upon second-hand reports as to what Europe was doing. We rejoice that in the course of your travels you thought fit to come to London, and we welcome you here with both hands. (Cheers.)"

"We look back on a very short ten and a half years and remember the darkening of London, the raids over the city. We remember how all our people in the Southwest of England heard by day and by night, and had been listening to it for years, that everlasting throb, that echo of the noise of the guns. We remember how people at Dover and Folkestone could see, night after night, lighting up the sky, the flash of that hellish bombardment which was going on. And you are like us—the word 'defeat' is not to be found in our dictionary. We knew that in five years, or ten years, or twenty years, those of us that were left alive would be the victors. You may imagine what it meant to us when on a Summer day ten years ago we saw the first regiment of your men marching through London."

"We knew then, thanks to that magnificent demonstration of unity in your nation, that a term was placed to the war, and that it would come to an end in a far, far shorter time than we had hoped."

MAKING PEACE

"It is a far, far harder thing to make peace than to make war. We have, of course, had many disappointments, but we have all of us to our credit known what the devastation was. You have some idea of the problems, moral and material, which the statesmen of the Old World have had to deal with. You will not be impatient with us. Many people, I know, are. It is said that we are still of a militarist mind. That, of course, is nonsense. (Cheers.) But remember this, and it is so difficult in the New World to realize it, that in Europe we have round our necks hereditary problems which have faced the peoples of Europe since the boundaries of the Roman Empire burst, and that all our people, from whatever part of Europe they came by the mere fact of setting foot in the New World, shook off those problems, and the responsibilities attaching to those problems, as Christian in the 'Pilgrim's Progress' shook off his burden. Rejoice, indeed, that that is your good fortune, but think twice before you blame those who stayed behind in the countries from which your ancestors came and who are still grasping with the problems from which they fled. We are doing our best, and we shall continue to do our best, and we are making progress."

"But again, you who have fought know this—and it is a handicap that we do not speak much of, but in a company like this I may speak of it—that in France and in England and in other countries in Europe we are denuded of a generation. That is a handicap we are working under, and if it sometimes seems that our progress is small and we may, perhaps, not be dealing in a way that you would deal with them, remember that, and be temperate in your judgments, and let us always think, on either side of the Atlantic, as men who were once brothers in arms, the best of each other, and let us, at any rate, spare ourselves to any of that grating criticism that may be found on either side of the Atlantic that so far as the progress of the world is concerned, can do nothing but harm and nothing but evil. Be assured, all our guests, that we shall never forget, and I hope it will be the same with you."

THE GENEVA CONFERENCE

"Before I sit down, one word to the people of America; one word about the conference of which we have read so much, too much, in the newspapers; the conference held at Geneva for the limitation of naval armaments. I have few words to say about it, but I will say this and record before you all my conviction. Our peoples are friendly enough and great enough to thrash a subject out, and, if they cannot agree, to differ like friends and like gentlemen. (Cheers.) Far better say to the world: 'We have examined this question; for the moment I have been justified. The failure has not made the Japanese increase their estimates. President Coolidge, so far as I can learn, is behaving as the statesman I believe him to be. When our next naval estimates come to be presented in the Spring, the world will know we have no intention of building against any nation.'

"War between our two peoples is unthinkable. (Cheers.) It is unthinkable, not only on the grounds of sentiment, which sometimes may be pushed a little too far, but on a practical basis. All of us in this room know perfectly well that war between two such forces as the British Empire and the United States would destroy once and for all the whole of the civilization worth preserving that exists in the world today. (Cheers.) The democracy of the world is on its trial today. We have all of us in our respective ways to work for the education of that democracy, but if others in which the success of that great experiment is imperative for the peace and progress of the world, they are our two countries. I hope and believe to the utmost of their endeavor the American Legion when it returns home will return home with new zeal and new vision to work for these great ends in conjunction with those who fought with them ten years ago and who will be workers with them for all time to come in the cause of peace. (Cheers.)"

To Make Men Safe From Unfit Hunters

VANCOUVER, Nov. 10.—Heralding a campaign to make the woods safe, the Attorney-General's Department has launched a prosecution for manslaughter against William Goodlet, employee of the Dominion Fishery at Rivers Inlet.

Teddy Roosevelt, Indian of the Owekeno Tribe, was accidentally killed on October 19 at Quap Creek, which is a tributary of Owekeno Lake, when Goodlet mistook him for a grizzly bear.

Partly concealed by a log, the Indian, who was wearing a brown shirt, looked like a bear to Goodlet in the poor light of the woods. A corner's jury exonerated Goodlet of blame.

On an information of Staff-Sergeant S. North, provincial police, Stipendiary Magistrate H. O. Alexander has issued a warrant against Goodlet charging him with manslaughter.

ELECTRIC WASHERS WILL BE ON SALE

Store for Beatty Washers Is Opened in Victoria. Many Already Use Its Equipment.

Today there will be opened at 712 Cormorant Street, in the Fairfield Building, across from the City Hall, the new Beatty Washer Store.

This store will be devoted exclusively to the sale of electric washing machines. The demand for them has grown in the past few years because the modern housewife usually prefers to have her washing done in her own home, under her own supervision. The washing is easy to do with the aid of an electric washer; takes but an hour to do and the clothes are beautifully washed. The sale of electric washers has therefore become so large that it is necessary to have special stores to look after the business.

Beatty Washers are made by Beatty Brothers, Limited, Fergus, Ont., a Canadian company throughout. Established now almost fifty-four years, Beatty Brothers, Limited, have grown to be the largest washer company in the British Empire, and own and operate their own exclusive washer shops in the Canadian cities. They have had a washer store in Vancouver for more than eight years and have sold over 15,000 electric washers in that city. Their store in Toronto has been in operation over twenty-six years. A full staff of expert demonstrators is retained at every store, and a complete stock of all the parts for washers sold during the past twenty-five years.

It is estimated that there are over 1,000 Beatty electric washers made by this company now in use in the city of Victoria.

A unique feature offered by the Beatty Washer Store is the complete washing outfit with every machine.

Ten wash day extras are available and the customer may choose any four of them, selecting the four that she needs the most. There is a strong bench which runs on wheels and holds the rinse tub and the bluing tub for use in the home where there are no stationary tubs. The company also makes square tubs, and will give one of these free if the customer desires an extra tub. A third premium is the washing machine drainer and hose for filling up and emptying the machine and tubs without carrying water back and forth. Other articles are the clothes hamper and basket, clothes rack and clothes driers, electric iron and ironing table. All these extras save a great deal of time and trouble on wash day, so that not only the washing is easy, the wringing, rinsing, bluing, filling up of tubs any emptying, drying and ironing, too.

The Beatty store is being fitted up with every care for the accommodation of the public. Courteous attention is given by demonstrators, who will be glad to show the various machines and explain the plan of payment.

JUDGE MORRISON GIVES DECISION

Finds There Is Cause for Action in Suit of F. M. Rattenbury vs. E. C. Land Settlement Board

In a brief written judgment handed down yesterday, Mr. Justice Morrison finds that there is cause for action in the Rattenbury vs. Land Settlement Board suit, and that the B. C. Land Settlement Board can be sued without a petition of right first being secured.

In respect to the third point, whether the Land Settlement Act is ultra vires of the legislative powers of the province, His Lordship leaves the trial judge to determine.

Mr. Justice Morrison's decision is as follows:

"In respect to points of law, one and two are submitted to me pursuant to the order of September 6, 1927. My answer is in the affirmative. As to question three, I leave it to be determined by the trial judge."

The action in which F. M. Rattenbury, Victoria architect, is plaintiff and the Land Settlement Board the defendant, concerns over 200,000 acres of land in the Skeena Valley. Under the Land Settlement Act he was ordered to either sell the land at a price fixed by the board or in default of agreeing to accept the price offered by the board to improve it to the extent of two dollars per acre within a year of receiving notice; a further two dollars an acre the second, third and fourth years, and $2.50 the fifth and six years, making a total improvement of $13.00 per acre. The act provides for a penalty tax in case of default. With plaintiff not in a position to pay for the improvements or the penalty tax the land was forfeited to the Crown with the exception of two or three small pieces.

Unstated damages and an injunction, an accounting, and a decree judging plaintiff and all land of plaintiff absolutely free from past or pending proceedings of the Land Settlement Board are asked for.

Mr. H. A. Maclean, K. C., is counsel for the plaintiff Rattenbury, while Mr. A. M. Johnson, K. C., is counsel for the Land Settlement Board in the action.

RADIO CONTROL GOOD IN ENGLAND

Misses Margaret and Constance Izard, arriving here from Old Land, Tell About Broadcasting Something of the advantages of the British system of radio control by one management, were explained to the Colonist last evening by Misses Margaret and Constance Izard, English artists, who arrived here yesterday from the Old Land after a cross-country tour. They are both well-known radio artists, and have been successful in their work. They are both well-known radio artists, and have been successful in their work. They are both well-known radio artists, and have been successful in their work.

Both Miss Margaret Izard and Miss Constance Izard are well known to English radio fans, as they frequently play for these audiences. So it is perhaps not to be wondered at that they have been asked to broadcast on more than one occasion since reaching Canada. They are both well-known radio artists, and have been successful in their work. They are both well-known radio artists, and have been successful in their work.

They have immensely enjoyed their journey across Canada, a trip happily broken by stopovers in Montreal (where they stayed with their sister, known to connoisseurs here as Mary Izard), Toronto, Winnipeg, and other towns in which they have played en route. Booked to give a recital next Tuesday evening at the Royal Victoria Theatre, under the auspices of the Artion Club, they expect to remain here for some weeks, visiting their sister, Mary Izard, who is now in Montreal, and other towns in which they have played en route.

Numerous amusing experiences have happened them. At Cologne, Germany, they gave a recital for a regiment billeted in a monastery at the top of a hill. After the entertainment of the soldiers who were rather hippish with their mess because he changed to be a favorite with the Colonel, was carrying the cello when he fell with it down the hill. The incident proved to be the wildest mirth among his companions, whilst Miss Izard was suffering acute anxiety over the welfare of her instrument, which is a valuable old French cello bearing the date 1793. Miss Constance Izard yesterday recalled that in Dublin, where she appeared in concert during one of the revolutionary outbreaks, she received a box of chocolates which, it was explained to her, had been opened and examined before it reached her. It proved to be a bomb. Her violin, it should be noted, is made of wood four hundred years old.

Brought up in an atmosphere of music and domestic pets, birds, cats, ducks, etc., the Misses Izard are still very interested in all kinds of animals, and having already heard of Victoria's Siamese cat, expressed a wish to visit it at the earliest possible opportunity.

Yesterday a letter was received from Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer Studios of Culver City, expressing their interest in the city as a future location for certain views and asking for complete information on the island.

East Sooke News

EAST SOOKE, Nov. 10.—It was with the greatest regret that the news of Mrs. Mary Cartwright's death was received on Saturday last. She will be much missed in East Sooke, where she has lived for so many years. She has taken a keen interest in the Farmers' Institute, of which she was a member, and her youngest son, Mr. E. A. Cartwright, the president.

On Friday next the concert, kindly arranged by the Columbia School of Music, will be held at Colwood Hall, starting at 8.30. This will be followed at 10.15 by a dance. Mr. Ray Kink's orchestra has been engaged.

On Wednesday, November 16, the monthly meeting of the Farmers' Institute will be held at Rocky Point School. Mr. Napier Denison has kindly promised to give a lecture on "The Climate of British Columbia."

On Sunday last the vicar, Rev. H. M. Bolton, held the bi-monthly service at Ragley, at which fifteen were present. The hymns and sermon were from the Armistice Day. At the conclusion the National Anthem was sung.

Bonser reported the accident to the police. He said the girl started in front of his car at Broadway and New Streets.

The Mirror of the Mode

By MARY MARSHALL

THERE is a rather disturbing similarity about some of the new negligees and some of the new evening wraps. You feel a strong inclination to wear your new velvet negligee trimmed with fur or marabout about where all the world and his wife might see it and admire it. Too bad to let its beauties be known only by those you know well enough to receive "en duhabille." And except that it is cut a little more generously in the sleeves hardly anyone would know the difference.

As it happens there are charming fashions of Oriental suggestion that are sold

In choosing the color of your negligee you should be guided by different rules than those you follow in selecting either day clothes or evening clothes. You have an entirely different, more specialized background to consider. Vivid colors need never be eliminated just because they are striking. You might hesitate to choose an evening frock of American Beauty rose color, lest you make yourself uncomfortably conspicuous.

Or you might avoid certain shades of lemon yellow or yellowish green for fear they would be discordant and off key with the clothes of the other women. But providing these shades go well with the decorations of your rooms then there is nothing else to consider for negligees, save whether you like them and find them becoming.

Everyone is talking about the new "washed flannels" that women are wearing for lounging and shoulder decorations—and a lot of women are making them. If you would like to know how to make some that are just a little different from those you usually see, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope and I will send you directions for making and sketches. They cost next to nothing, even if you have to buy the flannel—but if you have old, and end of worried on hand they cost nothing at all. CANADA'S SUGAR INDUSTRY GROWS

Exports Show Increase Although Values Fall Off Due to Decline in Prices

Canada is developing a healthy and prosperous trade in sugar, confectionery and allied products, the manufacture of which is based very largely upon imported raw material. The export of sugar in all forms in the twelve months ended June, 1927, had a value of $15,580,829, a decline when compared with the $17,808,798 of the previous corresponding year, which is, however, accounted for by the decline in prices. The volume of trade in the various commodities for the main part showed very gratifying increases.

Sugar manufactured in the Dominion in the first six months of the year totalled 415,563,064 pounds, as compared with 440,579,825 pounds in the first half of the previous year, while shipments aggregated 427,000,469 pounds as compared with 456,283,564 pounds. In the twelve months ended June exports of sugar aggregated 2,798,113 cwt. as against 2,753,131 cwt. in the previous twelve months, but the decline in price reduced the total value of shipments to $13,718,872 from $16,388,888.

Canadian refined sugar is going to a wide and ever growing market. The general disturbance to trade in the past year in the United Kingdom, Canada's principal market for sugar, is seen in the decline of purchases from 2,000,883 cwt. worth $12,446,138 to 1,534,152 cwt. worth $7,097,215. Business in this commodity with the United States, however, shows an astonishing increase, purchases rising from 3,005 cwt. worth $12,207 in the twelve months ended June, 1926, to 18,646 cwt. worth $117,897 a year later. Substantial increases in shipments are also recorded to India, Jamaica, France, Newfoundland, Norway and Uruguay.

TRADE IN CONFECTIONERY

There has been a marked increase in Canada's trade in confectionery, the manufacture of which, from the standpoint of capital investment, has always been an essentially Canadian industry. Recently, however, important British interests entered the field, lured no doubt by the expanding market for these products. Steady expansion of the industry is seen in Canada, illustrated at the present time in the erection of a half million dollar plant at Halifax for important Canadian interests.

In the twelve months ended June, despite the slump in general sugar values, exports of confectionery rose to $912,148 from $692,388 the year before. Despite its lower trade in products of this nature in general, the United Kingdom imported to the value of $142,000 compared with $105,444 the year before. United States imports likewise showed a very substantial increase, rising from a value of $4,223 to $6,841. Candy moved also in large quantity to New Zealand, Newfoundland, British South Africa, Australia, Bermuda, Jamaica, British West Indies, China, Colombia, Hong Kong, Japan and Panama. A feature of the trade with the United Kingdom is the growing export of chewing gum, that country having taken to the value of $250,250 in the last fiscal year, as against $33,964 the year before.

TRADE IN MAPLE PRODUCTS

The trade in maple products at the present time is of particular interest in view of the fact that it is considered probable that an increase in the tariff on maple sugar entering the United States will be recommended by the United States Tariff Commission, the suggested elevation being from four to six cents a pound. The total export of maple sugar and syrup from Canada in the past year had a value of $831,696 as compared with $612,437 in the year before. Exports of these products to the United Kingdom declined from $13,604 to $10,541, but to the United States increased from $397,242 to $616,309. There has been an especially heavy increase in the purchase of maple syrup by the United States, this commodity entering under the same duty as sugar.

Figures recently published show maple products to have had a total value in 1927 of $4,934,811 as compared with $4,896,375 in the previous year. This total was made up of 9,831,697 pounds of maple sugar, valued at $1,265,045, and 2,154,705 gallons of maple syrup, valued at $3,569,766. To the total value Quebec contributed $3,108,924; Ontario, $1,771,639; New Brunswick, $29,687; and Nova Scotia, $27,561. The only other sugar for which Canada is primarily responsible comes from the beet industry of Southern Alberta. It is interesting to note that the largest crop of beets since the industry became established is being harvested this year, due to an additional 800 acres being planted this Spring. Official estimate places the volume of the crop at about 45,000 to 50,000 tons, compared to about 41,000 tons last year. The sugar output of the refinery will be correspondingly larger.

76,000 TO SEE ARMY-IRISH GAME

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—More than 76,000 persons, a record for any gridiron contest in New York, are expected to witness the annual football classic between Notre Dame and the Army at the Yankee Stadium on Saturday. Work on new stands which will provide for such a seating capacity has been completed today. This attendance will exceed by 5,000 any previous crowd at a football contest here.

Too Late to Rebuild Highways This Year

SHERBROOK, Que., Nov. 10.—The flood waters having subsided throughout this district, work of repairing the enormous damage is in full progress. Train service is almost normal again, while large gangs of workmen are filling in the washouts on highways. However, it is very doubtful if there will be sufficient time to finish many of the country highways before winter sets in, and as a consequence most of the repair work will probably not be completed until next Summer.

Soviet Wants More

QUEBEC, Nov. 10.—Transportation of 10,000 Canadian light draught horses from Quebec to Leningrad, Russia, is the goal that has been set by the Soviet Government.

Questions & Answers on Household Problems

by Lady Di

HANGING BASKET—After a certain stage, ferns need cutting down. Once cut close to the earth they take on a new lease of life. If they do not seem sturdy then, a dose of castor oil every month or two will do wonders for them.

EXASPERATED—Don't give up. All pastel shades fade. Why not light stockings. When you wash them next, add a little Twink. It will restore the original shade, or tint them darker, as you like.

FASTIDIOUS—To make the cubes from your iceless refrigerator come out clear, boil the water before putting it into the ice tray.

CINDERELLA—Don't bewail the necessity of cutting down your older sister's frocks. Be grateful that you are so much smaller. For the dinner frock, I suggest dipping it in black Twink. The brilliant trimming won't be affected. It will be most striking against the black.

DISTRESSED—Probably the cleaner you have been using on your chain is responsible for it staining your neck. Wash it in soap and water, and shine it with a clean bath towel. Two or three treatments should correct the trouble.

ernment for the season of 1928. With the departure from Quebec about November 16 of the Russian steamer Dekabrist with 860 horses, a total of 3,000 of the animals will have been shipped through this port this year, and in order to carry the considerably larger figure aimed at for next season, the Soviet Government will charter another steamer in addition to the Dekabrist.

May Lessen Sentence

VANCOUVER, Nov. 10.—While judgment was reserved by the Court of Appeal, the appeal of Russell Stonehouse and William Pasquale, youths sentenced to life imprisonment for criminal assault, there appeared a strong indication that the sentence might be reduced on these points.

"While I have no suggestion to make, speaking for the Crown, I believe a shorter sentence with lashes would have served the interests of justice," Mr. Brown replied.

"So This Is Marriage"

By JUDITH WEST

THE STORY SO FAR
Judith West has resigned her position as advertising writer in a large department store, to marry Jim Overstreet, a young engineer. Judith's friends, Vera, predict that Judith will be back in the office in six months. Martin Craig, the employer, tells her she can come back any time. Judith resents these inferences against the probability of her marriage being happy. Although they planned to be married two weeks later, the two suddenly so off one night without telling friends.

CHAPTER V

Was there ever such a honeymoon! A gypsy honeymoon in the woods! Jim wanted to camp out. "Let's just forget, for two weeks, that we're civilized," he said. We'll get a tent and a frying pan and a coffee pot and some blankets and hit the trail."

"Sounds awfully romantic, Jim," I used to answer whenever he talked of a camping honeymoon. But the sad truth is that I hate bugs and ants in my means and snakes in my bed."

And so we struck a compromise. We would have a half-civilized honeymoon. Our plan was to make a hotel somewhere at night, have dinner and sleep in a room, and then strike out again and take our lunch under a tree by the side of the road or in a fern-filled canyon or wherever we happened to be when we got hungry.

Jim is a wonderful scout in the hills. He knows all about rocks and ledges and can look at a cliff or a valley and tell how it happened to be, just how it was made. He showed me a great valley, one day when we had climbed up a steep hill to get a view, a valley which he said was once the river bed for the ancestor of the splendid little creek that snuggled along now, quite oblivious of its former grandeur.

It was the first time I had seen Jim in his rightful setting. "You need a whole plan for your stage, Jim, old dear," I said to him one day. "And you ought to have a range of mountains on your back-drop."

Yes! It wasn't only through Jim's eyes that I saw my world. To tell the truth, I had the feeling that I was standing on tip-toe and actually seeing my world for the first time. Somehow, it seems as if I have always been too busy to "lift mine eyes to the hills." But now no thoughts of propriety or propriety and my mind and my office jargon sounded, up there in the woods, like some strange, foreign language.

A perfect honeymoon! Sometimes, when the day was hot, we would hunt out a swimming hole. Then Jim would dig out our bathing suits and tell me to put my arms and legs and we would splash around until we were tired. After that, a long, loafing afternoon under the trees with Jim's head in my lap.

And then the cool twilight and appetites grown to perfectly amazing proportions. Hungry? Oh, boy! Never shall I forget the T-bone steak and hot biscuits and raspberry jam that we had at a little inn "way up on a mountain top where we would have considered ourselves lucky to get a plate of beans.

There were adventures, too. On the first day out we came to a dead end and her two little spotted fawns all standing in a grass-filled clearing. And once we had a puncture only fifty yards from a spot where, a moment before, we had seen a mountain lion slide down the bank and across the road. And once, 3,000 feet above the floor of the valley, on a narrow, one-way mountain road, Jim had to build an extension on the side of the road with loose rocks and back up to let another car pass.

The two weeks went by in a twinkling. Jim had to get back to the office, or, at least, that's what he pretended. The truth was that our cash was running disgracefully low—for even a half-gypsy honeymoon costs an awful lot.

And now we were in town. Both of us as brown as Indians and so happy that it seemed as if we must have cornered all the happiness in the world.

At noon I called up the girls, Jane, first, at her office. Jane is an insurance bookkeeper—an awfully briny job.

Well, I wish you could have heard the joy in old Jane's voice. Just as if her only friend on earth had suddenly come back to life.

"You're both a couple of bums," she shouted over the phone. "Here we had a fine party planned for you and you slip off without a word to anybody... honest, Judy, I was awfully peeved."

"Cheer up, old thing," I answered, for nothing on earth could have ruffled my good humor just then. "I have a surprise for you. I want you to help me buy a trousseau—didn't have time to get it with Jim giving me the push."

There was a cry of joy at the other end. How Vera does love clothes. If she can't buy them she wants to look at them. Vera, I believe, would go without dinner for a week to buy herself a spiffy new pair of pumps.

"Let's go," she shouted. "Just as soon as you can find a place to live," I answered. "And when we do go we'll have a grand housewarming to make up for the wedding party."

Now it isn't quite clear, even to me, why I am setting down all of these trivial incidents. Why do I want to keep a chronicle of my life with Jim?

Certainly, before I married, I had no impulse to keep a record of my days. I suspect that my desire to write down an account of this, the first year of our married life, is merely a subconscious wish to hold on to our happiness, to seize it and imprison it in words.

For happiness, as everybody knows, is elusive and oh! so modest. If happiness would only shout: "Here I am! see, here by the fire-side... catch me quick before I go... here by the cradle, by your supper table... hurry... hold me... don't let me go away..."

If it doesn't. And so, years later, we say, regretfully enough: "I was so happy then—but I didn't know it. I am a glutton. I want to squeeze out of every day every little bit of happiness it contains."

Why postpone living? Why wait until Jim makes a lot of money? No; this day, this day here and now is ours. Twenty-four hours to fill as we wish... Twenty-four. A big order. I feel like a pauper. What have I that is worth putting into twenty-four hours?

So, I must hurry; this day must not slip away and tomorrow morning find me as soul-poor as yesterday.

There is something else, too, that ought to be worth recording: the adventure of being married.

Queer thing about marriage. Everybody seems to have become awfully skeptical about it. To tell the truth, nobody seems to know what it's all about. And yet so many new theories of marriage, so many new matrimonial systems, are going the rounds.

Martin Craig called marriage a ball and chain.

Vera Roach is for fifty-fifty marriage with the wife paying her own way.

Some of my serious-minded friends—take Mrs. Morton, head of the welfare department at the store—talk glibly about marriage being legal protection to women and mothers; that we wouldn't know who is responsible for little Johnny's support if Johnny's mother hasn't a husband.

Indeed, most people will agree that marriage is a necessary sort of an institution—necessary as handcuffs and jails are necessary. But that marriage on its own account is desirable—only an insane idealist would suggest such a thing.

"Be a good sport and stick it out to the bitter end," says Mrs. Morton. "Divorce is wrong because it is a sign of poor sportsmanship."

Now neither Jim nor I agree with the good Mrs. Morton. We have decided, in fact, that our marriage is going to be thoroughly modern and sensible.

"Jim," I used to say when we were engaged, "if the time ever comes after we're married when you want to quit I want you to feel at liberty to do so. I am perfectly able to earn my own living. There will be no ugly scenes, no back-biting. Just a clean, decent divorce."

"I can't imagine such a time ever coming," Jim used to answer. "If you must feel free to quit, too, if you should ever get tired of me, I want you to be happy, Judy; and if you can't be happy with me then I'll step out of the picture."

You see, Jim and I really do think of marriage as an adventure in companionship. We want to keep its thrills, its romance, always fresh, alive. We don't want to get stale and "settle down"—how I hate that term—into a stupid sort of married routine.

And when we are old I want to bring out these sheets, yellow with age; I want to put my arms about Jim's stooped shoulders and read over again the record of our happiness.

Enough of dreaming. My first job, as Jim's wife, is to find a place to live. Jim wants a bungalow with a back yard. And right here is a slip of the morning paper. Sounds darling: "Cottage, four rooms and bath, large yard, space for chickens."

Romance cottage: I've got your number.

Monument Erected To Coventry's Dead

The simple, but stately white monument, set in the midst of a beautiful bit of verdant England, constituted the first part of a scheme which had its foundation in the acquisition of the Memorial Park of 122 acres.

It was in 1919 that the appeal was made for subscriptions to purchase the War Memorial Park, consisting of 122 acres, and Stivichall Common, sixty-one acres.

For Permanent Peace

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 10.—Pleas for abolishment of war were made by speakers at the International Goodwill Congress which opened here yesterday under the auspices of the World Alliance for International Friendship.

The Rev. Dr. William Pierson Merrill, of New York, in his opening address as president of the Alliance, expressed the hope that the congress may "provide the oil of good comradeship for various vehicles that bear humanity onward toward the goal of natural and permanent peace."

WESTERN CANADIAN RUGBY FINALS MAY BE HELD ON COAST

British Columbia Body Wires Offer to Regina Rough Riders to Play for Championship at Vancouver—Series of Games for Title Is Proposed—Prairie Squad Anxious to Come

Local Officials Will Invite Team To Play Match Against Capitals

VANCOUVER, Nov. 10.—(Vancouver Daily News Service.)—The British Columbia Rugby Union, in a special meeting tonight, decided to accept the offer of the Western Canada Rugby Football Union and the Regina Rough Riders to stage the finals of the championship at Vancouver.

Accordingly an offer was drafted, which was wired to A. C. Dowd, of Winnipeg, secretary of the Western Union. By the terms of the proposition, which has been put up to the Regina Club, the British Columbia Union will guarantee $10,000 to the Rough Riders to come here. After the guarantee has been deducted from the gate and all expenses paid, they are willing to pay up to $800 expense money to the Prairie team. If there is any money left after this, it is proposed to share it between Regina and the British Columbia Union, fifty-fifty.

This was the offer which was wired last night in reply to the telegram of Dowd, which was received this morning, in which the secretary stated that owing to the cold weather on the Prairies it would be impossible to stage the play-offs there.

In a letter to George Goulding, British Columbia representative of the Western Canadian Union, Dowd stated that conditions on the Prairies were bad for Rugby right now, and that by the time British Columbia would be ready to play, it would be too cold altogether for the games.

SCENES OF GAMES
It is proposed to decide the championship in a series of two or three games. The first game, under the plan adopted by the British Columbia Union, would be staged at Athletic Park on Wednesday, November 16, with Regina pitted against the winners of the Vancouver-Varsity game here this Saturday. The second game of the series would be played Saturday.

Baseball's Fast Ride to Majors Marred by Criminal Court Detour—Bought for $123,000
ST. LOUIS, Nov. 10.—Chalmers Cissel, riding from the army toward the big leagues at a speed with few precedents on the diamond, today faced a criminal court detour to-day.

A felony indictment based on the story of a twenty-year-old man, Cissel, riding from the army toward the big leagues at a speed with few precedents on the diamond, today faced a criminal court detour to-day.

Almost at the same time last week that the Chicago White Sox announced they had purchased Cissel from Portland for $123,000, a Des Moines grand jury returned an indictment against him, charging reduction. The indictment was based on the telephone operator's story that Cissel had not kept a promise to marry her.

QUEENS WILL BATTLE MCGILL

Blue Ribbon Event of Eastern Canada Rugby to Be Played at Kingston Tomorrow

UNBEATEN TIGERS TO TAKE ON ARGOS

TORONTO, Nov. 10.—Two championship Rugby teams will be in action on Toronto fields this Saturday. In the week-end, Hamilton Tigers will attempt to maintain their unblemished record of victories by defeating Argos at Varsity Stadium. Balmy Beach, senior Ontario Rugby Union champions, meet Camp Borden at Oakwood Stadium. The other game in the O.R.U., which winds up its schedule on Saturday, is the Varsity-Tigers match at Hamilton.

Argos, undaunted by the Tigers' formidable record, are working hard this week for the game. Tigers are expected to start their regular team and Argos will do likewise.

Balmy Beach is reduced by injuries, but the unscathed men went through a sharp practice last night. Some of the cripples are expected to be back in the line in time for interleague finals.

Many Toronto fans will go to Kingston for the all-important Queens-McGill match, the blue ribbon event of the Rugby season in Eastern Canada.

Maple Leafs Vectors

TORONTO, Nov. 10.—Staging a goal scoring rally in the second period, Toronto Maple Leafs, of the National Hockey League, were saved from defeat by the Toronto Ravines, of the Canadian Professional Hockey League, when the two teams met at Arena Gardens today in a practice game. The Leafs finished in the van by 7-4.

Andy Smith There With All But the Ball

IT'S A TOUCHDOWN ANDY—THE OLD GAME IS ON ICE!!!

YES—BUT TH' H—L OF IT IS—I HAVN'T GOT THE BALL!!!

By AL DEMAREE (Former Pitcher New York Giants)

Paul J. Schuster, coach of the Oregon Aggies, told me a story that belongs in the legend and the annals of the game.

Andy Smith, famous California coach and former fullback at the University of Pennsylvania, was playing the last game of the season on Franklin Field, Philadelphia, and the game was very close. In the closing minutes, with the ball on the two-yard line, Bob Folwell, Penn quarter, called for a line plunge by Smith to take the ball over the Cornell line for a touchdown. The ball was snapped, Folwell handed it to Smith, and Andy plunged across the goal line. The entire Penn team went over in a crowd with him, and Folwell, hugging Andy and patting him on the back, yelled in his ear: "It's a touchdown, Andy. The old game is on ice."

Andy, with a worried look on his face, raised up and replied: "Yes, but the heck of it is I haven't got the ball!" Moving down the field, Cornell's end could be seen running across the opposite goal line for the touchdown which gave Cornell the victory!

Incidentally, that indirect pass from Folwell to Smith as it occurred this year under the present rules, would be an incomplete lateral pass, and the ball would be dead at the point where it hit the ground so the play cannot happen again under the present rules.

"Red" Blames Ice For Rheumatism; To Give Up Work

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Red Grange is to take no more ice. "The Wheaton ice man," who popularized the business as an advocate for halibut in the off season, declared today he believes the practice causes rheumatism. "Yes, sir," said Red, "that cold water on your shoulders doesn't do anybody any good. I know some old-time ice toters back home and it's ruined 'em. I'm going to stick to shoveling cement and playing golf like I did last summer."

CALGARY CADETS GET KING'S PRIZE

Western Canada College Receives Coveted Award From National Rifle Association
OTTAWA, Nov. 10.—Hon. J. L. Ralston, Minister of National Defence, has received from the High Commissioner for Canada a bronze shield to be forwarded to the Western Canada College Cadet Corps, Calgary.

This shield is a small replica of the silver trophy presented by the King to be awarded annually to that part of the British Empire, whose team of 300 boys makes the highest aggregate score in the rifle shooting competition. The competition is probably the greatest rifle shooting match in the world, and last year over 28,000 boys took part in it.

With a view to further stimulating interest in the match the admirals of the fleet, Earl Jellicoe, has donated the sword which he wore during his naval career, while Earl Haig has also donated the sword which he carried during his period of service.

In the 1925 competition the Western Canada College Cadet Corps won Earl Jellicoe's sword, and the National Rifle Association has now, with the consent of the King, presented the shield to be retained by the school as a permanent memento of that achievement.

EARL SANDE WILL TAKE MEDICINE AND AVOID NEXT SPRING

BALTIMORE, Nov. 10.—Earl Sande, deposed jockey, will take his medicine and avoid the next spring, Sande, who Tuesday heard the Maryland Racing Commission refuse to rescind the order which banned him from racing indefinitely for a foul at Pimlico last Friday, made that statement in an interview today at about the same time The Baltimore News received a telegram from the Havana-American Jockey Club at Havana, Cuba, announcing he would not be permitted to ride there.

The action of the Maryland commission, in depriving America's foremost jockey of his license automatically barred from all the recognized racetracks of North America.

Intermediates—N. Tanner, F. Sullivan, G. Michell, W. Tanner, S. Bickford, M. Bickford.

Rules Discussed

TORONTO, Nov. 10.—The one-sport rule, which was adopted at the spring meeting of the Canadian Intercollegiate Athletic Union, was looked upon with interest when viewed at the Fall meeting of the Union held in Hart House, University of Toronto, last night and it was thrown out.

Another rule which was adopted at the same time, that which curtailed an athlete's participation in any one branch of sport to four years during his college career, was also discussed, but it remains on the books.

SOCCER CHAMPS MAY BE NAMED

Tomorrow's Games Have Large Bearing on Deciding Champions of First Division Loop

SAANICH THISTLES TO PLAY SCOTCHISH

Tomorrow's First Division soccer fixtures are:
Victoria City vs. Victoria West, at Royal Athletic Park; referee, Swan.
Five C's vs. Esquimalt, at Beacon Hill, lower ground; referee, McMillan.
Saanich Thistles vs. 16th Canadian Scottish, at Beacon Hill, upper ground; referee, Saunders.
All games will start at 2:45 o'clock sharp.

Saanich Thistles, present leaders with a four-point advantage over Victoria City, will meet the 16th Canadian Scottish at Beacon Hill, and, except for a big upset, should come through with flying colors. The youngsters have annexed seven of the standing, and therefore Manchester City, who are second, cannot dislodge them. A win for Manchester, however, would prevent the Second Division programme being a runaway affair for Chelsea.

In Scotland the thistle will be the game between the Hearts and Celtic, though none of the First Division games seem likely to cause any change among leaders in the standing.

If Rangers, who meet the Hibernians, lose to a very unlikely contender, and Motherwell, who play St. Johnstone, draw or win, Motherwell will go into the lead.

Canadian Basketball Union May Send Winnipeg Toller and Edmonton Grads for Big Games

WINNIPEG, Nov. 10.—The question of sending Canadian basketball teams to the Olympic games next year is being dealt with by various provincial organizations of the Canadian Basketball Union.

There is a possibility that the Winnipeg Toller, men's champions of Canada, and the Edmonton Grads, women's champions, may represent the Dominion. The Toller have won the men's Canadian championship two years in succession, while the Grads have held the Dominion title continuously since 1922.

President Pare, of the Canadian Basketball Union, of Edmonton, has sent a questionnaire to affiliated organizations seeking their views on the question.

Leaders of First Division in English Football Will Take No Chances in Tomorrow's Game

Manchester City and Chelsea Will Battle in Second Division Feature—Blackburn Plays Portsmouth

LONDON, Nov. 10.—With only a point separating them from the runners-up for first position in the league standing, Everton cannot afford to take any chances in the English Football League match with Derby County on Saturday. The game will be played at Derby. On form Everton should win easily. Newcastle United, the second team in the senior soccer standing, have a harder battle to fight, because they must meet Burnley on the latter's own terrain. Burnley's record is quite a good one.

Aston Villa, who have been pushing their way towards the top steadily during the past few weeks, meet Tottenham Hotspur, and the Nottingham team should grab a couple of points. Should Newcastle lose, the Villa can get into second place. Other clubs who can improve their position on Saturday's games are Blackburn Rovers, who meet Portsmouth, and Cardiff City, who lock horns with West Ham United.

CHELSEA VS. MANCHESTER
In the Second Division the headliner game will be that between Chelsea and Manchester City at the London club's grounds. Chelsea are three points in the lead at the head of the standing, and therefore Manchester City, who are second, cannot dislodge them. A win for Manchester, however, would prevent the Second Division programme being a runaway affair for Chelsea.

In Scotland the thistle will be the game between the Hearts and Celtic, though none of the First Division games seem likely to cause any change among leaders in the standing.

Opening Matches in Senior Rugby to Be Played Tomorrow

J.B.A.A. Will Face United Services and Wanderers Will Meet Scottish—University School and Brentwood College Feature of Intermediate Programme

Senior Rugby will be officially ushered in here tomorrow, when four teams make their debut on the playing fields. With the Canadian Rugby season finished, the players will turn their attention to the English code. The opening fixtures announced by the Victoria Rugby Union are as follows:

United Services vs. J.B.A.A., at Work Point Barracks.
Oak Bay Wanderers vs. 16th Canadian Scottish, at Willows oval.
Games will start at 2:45 p.m.

Judging by the material that is lined up by the different clubs, the opening games give promise of being keenly contested. The Bays will find one of the finest fields in the country at their disposal when they journey to Work Point to meet the Services. Alterations, which have been made in the last two or three years have made the Garrison ground one that stands out by itself.

The teams have been practicing hard for the last three weeks and should be in good trim. Large crowds are expected to attend the games.

BAYS HAVE STRONG TEAM

The J.B.A.A., eight times winners of the city championship, have a strong aggregation lined up and will be out in quest of another championship. Some of the players who will appear in their uniform are: Frampton, Cavens, Webster, Walls, Dawson, McDonald, Mawhood, Buller, Gregor, Moses, Bill Peden, Benny McMillan, Lean, Means, Holman and Bacon.

The United Services have ample material and in addition to a number of veterans they have several who will make their debut. Among those who will appear on the field will be: Pressey, Creery, Roy, Putman, Jordan, Unwin, Clarks, Pemberton, King, and Curtis. The 16th Canadian Scottish are making their first bow to the public in the Rugby Union and will trot out such well-known players as: Farrar, Henderson, Stoney, Christie, McGivern, Thurburn, Travis and Shaw.

The Oak Bay Wanderers will make their appearance at the Willows against the 16th Canadian Scottish.

Among those who will wear a Wanderers' uniform this year are: Wally Hrynjoloff, Steve Brynjoloff, Colpmair, Russell, Parfitt, Helgesen, Dunn, Harman, Dunn, Harman, Nash and Harrison.

PIRATES MAY PLAY
The J.B.A.A., Oak Bay Wanderers, United Services and 16th Canadian Scottish teams have been accepted in the league. It is understood that the Pirates have also made application to enter. If their entry is accepted a five-team league will function.

Intermediate League games for tomorrow are as follows: University School vs. Brentwood; Victoria College vs. 16th Canadian Scottish; Normal School vs. Oak Bay Wanderers.

The feature attraction on this programme will be the University School-Brentwood struggle at Mt. Tolmie ground. These clubs have yet to be beaten and a great struggle is expected.

It will bring together two of the best drilled Rugby machines in the city, and squads that have played good football throughout the season. University School has set an enviable record, not only in scoring, but in keeping their line from being crossed. The average weight of their pack is 171 pounds. Brentwood has played a consistent game, but have failed to pile up such big scores as their opponents in to-morrow's battle.

Brentwood boasts of a fast and well-trained pack, but their three-quarter work excels that of the forwards.

Victoria College and the 16th Canadian Scottish fifteens should put up a good fight. The collegians have outscored their opponents, but they have the same number of points chalked up against them as the militia men.

Oak Bay Wanderers and Normal School squads will be out fighting for their first victory, and a keenly contested game should be the result.

HOCKEY PLAYERS LEAVE TONIGHT

Rep Grass Hockey Team Will Meet Vancouver on Mainland Tomorrow in First Allan Cup Game

The Islands Hockey Association's rep grass hockey team will leave on the midnight boat tonight for Vancouver, where they will meet the pick of the Mainlanders tomorrow in the first game of the Allan Cup series. The return match will be played here on March 4 at Oak Bay Park.

The silverware is at present resting here. In the home-and-home series total goals decide the winner. The matter was left in the hands of the Islanders to make the trip and play a friendly match with the University of British Columbia girls' team.

The Allan Cup team, which will be captained by Wilson, of Victoria, is as follows:
Garnett (Cowichan), Muncy (Victoria), Abbott (Salt Spring), Wilson (Victoria), Williams (Victoria), Grant (Victoria), Dunlop (Duncan), Annandale (Duncan), Parr (Victoria), D. Croft (Salt Spring), and Hodgson (Victoria).

Hockey Meeting Adjourned Until Call of Chair

The adjourned annual meeting of the Victoria Senior Amateur Hockey League, which was to have been held at the Chateau of Commerce last night, was adjourned for a second time, when it was found that members of the Victoria Hockey Club were at the rink practicing. The matter was left in the hands of President Warren, to call the next meeting.

Women to Parley on Dangerous Sports

TORONTO, Nov. 10.—The annual meeting of the Women's Amateur Athletic Federation of Canada has been set for November 25 in this city. Discussion will centre on which events are considered objectionable and injurious to women; the eligibility of girls under sixteen years of age; the proportion of track and field championship events that should be compulsory, and the question of sending a team to the Olympic Games next year.

Canadiens Win

KITCHENER, Ont., Nov. 10.—Scoring twice each of the first two periods and adding another in the final session, Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League defeated Kitchener of the Canadian Professional Hockey League, 5-0, in an exhibition game here last night.

JOE DUNDEE SUSPENDED

Welterweight Champion and Manager Got in Bad With California Dukes as Result of Fight Fiasco

$5,000 APPEARANCE MONEY FORFEITED

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 10.—The final bits of wreckage of the Joe Dundee-Ace Huddins fight flop were swept up and definitely stowed away last night when Seth W. P. Strelinger, local member of the State Athletic Commission, announced his findings in the affair. Strelinger's decision included:

Suspension indefinitely of Dundee, and the welterweight's manager, Max Waxman.

Dundee's $5,000 appearance money was declared forfeited to the commission.

The licence of Dick Donald, the promoter of the fight which failed last Thursday night when the titleholder failed to appear, was automatically revoked with the cancellation of his lease on Wrigley Field.

The commission's action definitely snuffed out the possibility of staging the Dundee-Huddins fight here November 21, as had been agreed upon previously at a conference of Strelinger with Dundee, Waxman and Donald.

The Athletic Commission previously had placed disposition of the case in the hands of Strelinger, and last night's action, the commissioner declared, made the fight into a closed incident so far as he was concerned.

ALLOWED TO GO EAST

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 10.—Joe Dundee, welterweight boxing champion, and his manager, Max Waxman, were given permission late today by City Prosecutor E. J. Lickley to return east at once, despite the charges of false advertising and pending against them here in connection with the Dundee-Ace Huddins fiasco of last Thursday night.

The trial of the champion and his manager and Dick Donald, the promoter of the fight which failed, had been set for December 2. The fighter and his manager had been placed under $2,500 bail each after they had been arrested on an east-bound train the day following the Wrigley Field affair.

Lickley refused to comment on whether his consent to Dundee and Waxman leaving the State meant that the charges against them would not be pressed.

28TH CHESS GAME ADJOURNED AFTER FORTIETH MOVE

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 10.—The twenty-eighth game for the masters' chess championship, was begun tonight with the usual opening moves. Alekhine, the challenger, playing the queen's pawn, and Capablanca, the champion, replying with the king's knight. The game was adjourned to Friday after the fortieth move.

Indications point to another draw. Most of the pieces were exchanged, only a castle, knight and three pawns remaining to each player.

Favored to Win at Vancouver Tonight

MICKEY GILL

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 10.—Mickey Gill, the hard-hitting little Irishman, who battles Harvey Holliday in the ten-round main event in Vancouver tomorrow night, has been installed a favorite over Holliday, owing to his record with such opponents as Teddy Baldock, Clever Sencio, Black Bill and other top-notchers.

Holliday, however, has never been defeated in thirty-six bouts and it remains to be seen if Gill can stop his winning streak.

Billy Townsend, of Vancouver, meets Don Stewart, of Seattle, in another ten-round bout on the card. Three other four-round bouts complete the card.

Stecher Beats Zbyszko

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 10.—Joe Stecher, of Nebraska, generally recognized as the kingpin of heavyweight wrestlers, last night tossed Wladek Zbyszko off the list of those who would like to annex his claim when he copped two out of their three falls.

Two Deer at One Shot

SAULTE STE. MARIE, Ont., Nov. 10.—P. Sculley, of Espanola, achieved a measure of fame in the district when he shot two deer with one bullet. Sculley fired at a deer, but it was not until after he went over to secure it that he discovered a second deer had also fallen victim to his rifle.

DEMPSEY UNDER TEX'S GUIDANCE

Tunney Declares Promoter Informed Several Persons That He Appointed Flynn as Jack's Advisor

THREE FIGHTS FOR CHAMP NEXT YEAR

SPECULATOR, N. Y., Nov. 10.—Tex Rickard has informed at least half a dozen persons that he appointed Leo P. Flynn as Jack Dempsey's "advisor," allowing them to understand that he (Rickard) actually was managing the fighter, Gene Tunney, heavyweight champion, stated tonight when informed of Billy Gibson's statement that he was "mightily peeved" over the Rickard rumors.

"That is common knowledge in New York," Tunney said, when informed of the rumor. "Rickard has told at least half a dozen people that he appointed Flynn as Dempsey's advisor or mentor, or call it what you want to."

"I am not under Rickard's management," the champion added.

Tunney said he was "curious to see" if Jack Kearns in his suit for $333,333.33 against Dempsey really would charge managerial relationships between Rickard and Dempsey. Of Gibson's statement, that he would fight at least twice in 1928, Tunney merely said that Gibson was wrong in this statement. "He would fight three times."

The champion returned here tonight from Raquette Lake, where he said he did no hunting, but "just tramped around and had a good time."

TRIAL STARTS TUESDAY

TRENTON, N. J., Nov. 10.—Judge J. Reilstad has consented to hear a motion tomorrow in Federal District Court to dismiss the suit instituted by Jack Kearns, manager of pugilists, against Jack Dempsey, former world's heavyweight champion, for $333,333.33. The alleged breach of contract suit has been listed on the calendar for next Tuesday. The grounds on which the motion to dismiss the suit was brought were not stated.

Kearns is suing for one third of Dempsey's earnings in the ring, vaudeville, motion pictures, the receipts taken in while in training.

and including the purse the former champion received for his bout with Gene Tunney at the Sesqui-centennial grounds, Philadelphia.

Glands for Women

LONDON, Nov. 10.—The Evening Standard today quotes Dr. A. John Capper Magan, surgeon and gynecologist, of Manchester, as saying that for ten years he has been performing successfully a gland transfer operation which enables previously sterile women to bear children.

The doctor is quoted as saying that these women enjoyed greatly improved health and appearance after the operation, which consists of removing a gland from one woman and transferring to the sterile patient.

"I have transferred glands for about 100 women, the surgeon is quoted as saying. 'The grafting was remarkably successful. To hitherto sterile women children were born.'"

Ventures to Chicago

LONDON, Nov. 10.—Despite the strenuous campaign of Mayor William Hale Thompson, Chicago, to protect that city from the British, the mayor's bailiwick has no terrors for at least one British lord.

Lord Ashfield, head of the London subway system, today accepted an invitation to attend the opening of Chicago's subways—whatever date it may be—and be among the guests to make a first official trip through the system.

The invitation came from Michael Faherty, president of Chicago's Board of Local Improvements.

OTTAWA, Nov. 10.—General Orders of the Department of National Defence announces that the King has been pleased to approve the alliance of the Calgary Regiment with the Kings Own Royal Regiment, Lancaster.

News and Notes of the Interior

THE APPLE CROP

PENTICTON—When apple picking in the Penticton district ended, the local co-operative had 15,000 boxes unpacked in various places around town, 65,000 unpacked in its own warehouse and 30,000 packed boxes, a total of 110,000. Approximately 140,000 boxes had been shipped. A partial apple payment at the rate of thirty cents per box, totaling $75,000, was made on apples received at all warehouses up to and including October 26. At the corresponding date last year the advance payment was only ten cents. According to the computations of Manager Impett, apple growers contracting with the Occidental will average a dollar per box this year.

CLAIMS BONDED

SMITHERS—J. O'Brien, of Rosemount, Penn., has taken options on two groups of claims in the vicinity of the Duthie mine and has let contracts for substantial development. The price to be paid for the King Tut property is not stated, but O'Brien has let a contract for 200 feet of work on it. For the Victoria group the consideration is said to be $150,000, with the principal payments spread over a period of three and one-half years. Work on the two properties will be continued throughout the winter.

MINES WORKING

PRINCE GEORGE—Satisfactory smelter returns from Trail on sample shipments made by the Pioneer and Last Chance mining properties on Government Creek have been received by a local syndicate consisting of Joe Peters, Harry Ewing, William Bonner, Thomas White and T. R. Rush. It has been decided to continue taking ore from the Last Chance during the winter and extensive developments are planned. The property is about two miles from the line of the P.G.E. Railway and is within forty-five miles of Prince George.

POTATO FAILURE

SMITHERS—The potato crop promises to be just as scarce in this district as was anticipated early in the summer. Digging has revealed many disappointments and the harvest will be but a shadow of former years. In many parts of the Bulkley Valley the farmers will have little more than enough to supply their own needs during the winter.

CALCIUM PHOSPHATE CLAIMS

PERNIE—The Consolidated Mining & Smelting Co. has a crew of surveyors at work on the calcium phosphate claims located in this district last year. It is said it is the intention to have them Crown granted. A Crown grant will give the mining right on each six hundred and forty acre claim and forty acres surface rights. Rumor has it that the Consolidated will commence to develop their properties in this district next year.

At The Playhouses

COLISEUM Bebe Daniels, Paramount star, is just about ready to appropriate the title of "film's champion all-round athlete." The business started some time ago when the dashing comedienne made "The Palm Beach Girl" and took the part of a swimmer and the pilot of a motor boat. Now she is in another picture of college sports, "Swim, Girl, Swim," which is now showing at the Coliseum Theatre. Here she is shown as an expert swimmer, and her training was received from Gertrude Ederle, first woman to swim the English Channel, who has an important role in support of the star. The vaudeville entertainment is of the best, all acts being from the Mainland. This is the last week of vaudeville, the Ray Bell Stock Company being the attraction for next week.

PLAYHOUSE A domestic drama showing the strength of a mother's sacrifice for her son is the theme of "The Wife Who Wasn't Wanted," now showing at the Playhouse Theatre. James Flood directed this picture of the novel written by Gertrude Ederle, which Bess Meredith prepared the scenario. "What Happened to Father," also showing at the Playhouse, is an uproarious picture depicting the doings of a well-meaning, middle-aged gentleman back-stage at a Broadway musical show.

COLUMBIA Plenty of laughs and thrills, interspersed with deft dramatic touches, constitute the prime ingredients in Hoot Gibson's Universal Jewel Western, "Painted Ponies," now showing at the Columbia Theatre. The rodeo scenes depict some of the most exciting cowboy stunts ever filmed, for they were made at the famous annual event at Saugus, California. Gibson, who performs on the back of a maddened steer, proves himself to be a real cowboy, still able to do the tricks that won for him the world championship in cowboy athletics three years in a row at Pendleton, Ore. From the time Gibson appears on the scene, the hero runs into troubles and more troubles, which lead up to a great many comic situations and the beginning of a love affair that supplies the heart throbs.

DOMINION "The Way of All Flesh," the picture that fuses the greatest acting talent of the Continent with the cream of American production genius, will be the attraction at the Dominion Theatre today. Declared the most convincingly human story ever transferred to the screen, "The Way of All Flesh" is the first American-made starring vehicle of Emil Jannings, international screen idol. Jannings is the actor who Bosu Mueller in "Variety" was agreed by all critics and exhibitors to be the outstanding film performance of 1926. He also won fame for his work as the hotel porter in "The Last Laugh" and as Henry VIII in "Deception."

CAPITOL Between brain and brawn there must be a mediator—the heart. That is the idea on which "Metropolis," the wonder UFA film which Paramount presents at the Capitol today, is founded. The workers of "Metropolis," a city of the future, live far below the surface of the earth. They work in ten-hour shifts, practically chained to huge machines. Upon completing their daily stunt the men board elevators which take them thousands of feet down into the bowels of the earth. A tender love story runs throughout the film as Eric, son of the master of Metropolis, falls in love with

"Bill of Divorcement" Opens Engagement At Royal, Tonight

The entire action of "The Bill of Divorcement," playing at the Royal Victoria Theatre tonight and tomorrow night, takes place on Christmas Day. The first act, on Christmas morning, with intermittent accompaniment of the church bells playing the old English carols, the snow outside and the warmth and good cheer within, with a friendly glowing fire and a generous display of holly and mistletoe, decorated Christmas tree and all Noel good cheer. The effect of this picturesque and dramatically contrasted atmosphere for the movement of this thrilling and sensational story which begins with the return of the exiled husband to the scene of his old domestic surroundings so near and dear to him, to find his daughter, grown to womanhood, seated by the fire and his wife absent at the Christmas morning service with the man she is to marry on New Year's Day.

Ray Bell Stock Company Opens at Coliseum Monday

Next week will see a change in the entertainment at the Coliseum Theatre, and Monday, November 14, will witness the opening performance of Ray Bell's Stock Company in a three-act comedy drama. This company comes here from long runs in many Coast cities and from all accounts will be a welcome acquisition to Victoria, and Messrs. Nichols and Spencer, managers of the Coliseum, can be congratulated on their judgment. It is the intention of the Bell Stock Company to put on comedy dramas correctly staged and well costumed, lasting not less than an hour and a half, which will be followed each evening by a high-class feature picture, next week's offering being Clara Bow in "Wine."

Weekly Comedy At Crystal Garden An Attractive One

The one-act farce which will be presented by the Co-Optimal Comedy Company at the Crystal Garden tonight is the type of play in which this company excels. It is of the serio-comical variety; intensely serious for the characters involved but full of rollicking good humor for those who are seated across the footlights. The early morning scene is laid in the corridor of a hotel and the whole episode serves to show how the whole household can be aroused to a pitch of biting sarcasm and scandalized propriety by a commonplace and harmless incident. Mr. Legge-Willis, old gentleman, his daughter (Mrs. Sturrock), an old lady (Miss Iona Robertson), a popular actress (Mrs. Legge-Willis), a young man (Mr. Richard Blomfield), are the characters in this play, which promises an hour of continuous laughter.

Many attend these weekly concerts at the Crystal Garden as it is one of the occasions when orchestra music of the better kind can be heard in Victoria. That there is a keen interest in this part of the programme is evident from the number of requests for certain selections received by Orchestra Leader William Tickle. It is from these requests that the musical programme for the following week is arranged. After the concert the usual dance is held in the south ballroom and the entire audience is invited to attend.

"The Life of Riley" Comes to Screen at Playhouse, Monday

He was a master at the art of putting the pea under the walnut shell where you think it isn't! Then a motion picture director, years later, tried to show him how to do it. It cost the director four dollars. Sam Hardy, who supports George Sidney and Charlie Murray in "The Life of Riley," a feature-length laughquake coming to the Playhouse Theatre next week, is the shell expert who demonstrates his craft in the picture. And William Beaudine was the unlucky director who rehearsed the ex-showman and noted celluloid actor, and failed four times in a row to pick the shell that hid the pea. A shell game is part of the wide assortment of colorful backgrounds and activity that go with the plot of "The Life of Riley," which E. M. Asher produced for First National Pictures. Myrtle Bedman, June Marlowe, Stephen Carr, Edwards Davis, and Bert Woodruff are supporting players.

Kiwanis Minstrels Chorus to Include Best Local Talent

By no means the least meritorious feature of the programme to be presented by the Kiwanis Minstrels in the Royal Victoria Theatre on November 21, 22 and 23, will be the chorus, which includes some of the best local talent. Every member of the circle is a vocalist of some repute. Among the songs they will render are the old favorites, "Love's Old Sweet Song" as well as "Hello, Swanee," "Hallelujah" and others. For weeks the circle has been in almost constant training, rehearsals having been held frequently.

From the musical standpoint alone the Kiwanis Minstrel Show gives every promise of measuring up to a high standard. Carl Stocker, the director of the show, has been working strenuously towards staging an entertainment that will eclipse previous efforts of the Kiwanis Minstrel Troupe.

ROTARIANS TAKE TRIP TO NANAIMO

Local Clubmen Participate in Inter-city Feet-Tickets for Rotary Ice Carnival Going Fast

Thirty-nine members of the Victoria Rotary Club and their ladies visited Nanaimo on Wednesday and participated in the great intercity Rotary meeting there. A programme of speeches and entertainment was given at the Malaspina Hotel.

At yesterday's luncheon of the local Rotary Club, held in the Empress Hotel here, reports of the various committees in connection with the forthcoming Rotary ice carnival were given. The event will be staged at the Willows Arena on Saturday night, November 19, and tickets for the pond show are going fast. Twenty-five boxes have already been disposed of, and it is expected that all the seats will be occupied when the carnival opens next week-end.

The sum of $34.50 was realized by a drawing for a box among the Rotarians yesterday. The winner was Mr. H. C. Fletcher, of Toronto, who returned the box for recompetition at next Thursday's luncheon. Two new members were welcomed at the gathering, namely, Mr. William Bell, of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who was introduced by Rotarian Jimmy Macfarlane, and Rev. Montague W. J. Bruce, of St. John's Church, who was introduced by Rotarian Frank Delbert.

THE ARMISTICE

By W. J. CARR

Illustrated by Fergus Kyle

I went to the periscope; yes, looming up from the northwest was a flotilla of enemy submarines, vessels that had almost cost Great Britain her freedom.

NINE years ago today, within a few miles of the enemy coast, I leaned against the periscope standard of one of the newest British submarines specially constructed to destroy the enemy submarines which were threatening the Allies with starvation.

My boat was filled with six bow tubes, each holding 18-inch torpedoes, all of which could be fired simultaneously. Thus, by allowing a slightly different deflection for each, they could be made to spread out fan-wise and make a "miss" (due to a slight error in estimating the enemy's speed) almost an impossibility.

This was the first submarine of its class in commission and our initial undertaking was to waylay and destroy nine German U-boat service boats which our intelligence had told us were returning to Germany after a cruise in the Mediterranean.

The day was perfect—the atmosphere clear and there was just enough ripple on the waters of the North Sea to conceal the "feather" of our periscope, should we have the opportunity to make an attack. During the previous night we had heard the German submarines communicating by wireless with their shore stations, and the direction finders on the British coast had fixed the enemy's position and given us the information. Several times the enemy vessels had used their wireless, and each time their position had been fixed. The navigator had, therefore, been able to plot their course and approximate speed fairly accurately, and if his calculations were right they should pass over the position where we lurked in ambush between 11:30 a.m. and noon.

From the information in our possession it was obvious that the German intended to make his landfall north of Horn's Reef and sneak down inside neutral waters to his base. The chances were also in favor of his running on the surface, so as to make better speed, and pass through the dangerous channels around Horn's Reef during daylight.

I had decided, therefore, to keep a sharp surface lookout which would give us a wider range of vision and enable us to head the enemy off should he prove to be passing too far off on either beam. We were ready for action and the boat trimmed down to "neutral buoyancy." With the sound of the

"Why the he—didn't I disconnect the aerial a minute sooner. There goes my 'opes of a nice little pub and a life ashore. It's a h— of a war, strike me pink if it ain't."

"alarm" she would sink beneath the surface in about thirty seconds. "Nobby Clark," the signaler, was perched upon the periscope standard sweeping the clear-cut horizon for the first sign of the enemy.

"Blyme, sir, I 'ope they comes this way and altogether, sir!" "I feel they will, Clark," I replied, for I had a distinct hunch that today was to be our lucky day. SIGNALER CLARK'S AMBITION

"If we only get right in amongst the whole bunch of 'em with our six fish—strike me pink if I don't buy me a 'pub' with my share of the 'blood money'."

The British Admiralty allowed submarine crews £50 for each enemy sailor destroyed, or about £6,000 for sinking a battleship. "Might not be the wisest class of investment for you, Clark," I laughed, knowing his capacity when sampling the rum ration.

"Oh, I'd let the Old Dutch handle the trade, sir! She's a real 'ead on 'er shoulders, she 'as. I'd sit around and cultivate the custom, sir, and keep order like."

"I understand, Clark," I said kindly, "swallow the anchor and settle down to family life."

"You bet ye, sir, me and the missus and the kids is mighty 'appy when I'm 'ome on me three days leave."

I reflected, that so probably were the men in the submarines we were expecting to destroy within the next hour, but the present moment was hardly for ruminating on the why and wherefore of life.

"Keep your eyes skinned, Clark; we must be sure to see them first."

"Aye! aye! sir," replied the cockney and the watch continued in silence. Every nerve was strained to the utmost, our eyes were glued to the high-powered binoculars.

From time to time I glanced nervously at my wrist watch—how slow the minutes seemed to drag—9:30—10. Were our calculations right? Or were they wrong?

If they were in company, as I suspected, and one vessel alone had used the wireless the previous night, I knew it would be about 11 a.m. before they reached our ambush, but the suspense was terrible. If the signals had been sent from more than one vessel and only once from each, then our calculations on their speed were useless and they might appear any old time.

I had had over two years at submarine work, and, like drugs, the fascination grew upon me.

Submarine work emphasized all the greatest instincts in human nature, the thrill of the chase, the uncertainty of life, the accomplishment of victory, the knowledge that the inevitable price of defeat was "Death!"

Hunting big game in Africa might have its joys and thrills, but never in history has such opportunity been given for the thrill of hunting to attain the peak it did in the submarine service.

In the first place, the hunter was both "hunted" and "hunted," and in all cases the chances of becoming the trophy was equally as great as returning the victor.

These remarks apply to both sides alike. You had to run the gauntlet of enemy submarines lying in ambush when you left port and when you returned, you had to run the gauntlet of their mine fields before you reached their lair, and while you planned and figured to catch the other fellow as he left or returned to base, you were ever harassed by the traveler and destroyer patrols on the surface and the big fleets overhead, which tried to give all the protection to their own vessels possible.

A GREAT PRIZE

And what a prize each side played for! Germany's submarines tried to starve England into submission. Britain's submarines fought to defeat this end and kept a constant blockade around the enemy coast.

If you were lucky you won medals and received a rich monetary reward for undertaking the most hazardous task of the war.

If you were unlucky you became one of the 331-3 per cent of the submarine service which the monument on the Thames Embankment in London records "lay down their life for the cause."

Thirty-three and one-third per cent of all the submarine service personnel were killed.

Over fifty per cent of those who actually engaged in overseas patrol duties went West.

Right inside the Bight of Heligoland gave you a medal. Usually three or four trips were sufficient to have your name recorded on the "roll of honor."

I had laid my plans and was waiting to spring the trap, yet I knew that it was possible that they also go skywards any minute—yet I took the chance. When submerged the range of your horizon is reduced to about two or three miles, and they might have passed just out of range. On the surface our range of vision was approximately eight to ten miles.

"Look, sir!" cried Clark, in a strained whisper, as though his voice might betray our presence. He was pointing in a direction about two points off our starboard bow.

"What do you see, Clark?" I asked, focusing my glasses on that part of the horizon indicated.

"Just a speck, sir! But a Fritz, as sure as death, strike me andsonne if it ain't, sir!"

"Climb down and house the wireless, Clark," I ordered, controlling my voice to keep it from shaking with excitement.

I glanced at my watch while waiting for Clark to descend 11:10 a.m. CH'm'l calculations not so far off, after all, I said to myself.

"There's a message coming in on the wires now, sir!" said Clark, as he prepared to lower the telescopic mast.

"To h—l with the message—we'll dive as soon as I get one good look at Fritz."

"I climbed upon the periscope standard and balanced myself to the roll of the boat and gazed in the direction of the approaching enemy. Sure enough, just showing above the horizon, was a dome-shaped speck, yes, there were two—no, three—and heading almost straight for us.

less aerial and housed the mast and was climbing below.

Even while I waited for him to remove his head the decks disappeared and the waters climbed up the sides of the conning tower. I jumped down, pulled the hatch cover down and secured the fasteners.

"Get a good trim at thirty-five feet," I called to the first lieutenant, "and keep her on her present course."

"Aye, aye, sir!"

I clambered down into the control room and walked over to the navigator, who was working at the plotting table.

"You doped it out great, pilot," I said, slapping him on the back. "They're showing their heads now and sailing right for Davy Jones' locker. There's a bunch of them. I hope we bag the lot."

McNabb, the navigator, never even looked up from the pad he had been figuring on—he just stared at the paper in dumb amazement.

"What's the matter, Sandy?" I asked, anxiously, at a loss to understand his present attitude when our hopes for months were about to materialize.

"Matter!" groaned Sandy. "Matter! Everything's the matter, the blank black armistice's been signed."

"What?" I belated.

"Fact," said Sandy, as he passed me over the signal pad.

"Urgent—priority."

"H.M.S. Lucia to H.M.S. Titania. 'All 8-MS on patrol.'"

"Armistice signed 11 a.m. Cease hostilities unless attack—"

Here the message had been broken when Clark disconnected the aerial. I went to the periscope; yes, looming up from the northwest were a flotilla of enemy submarines—vessels that had almost cost Great Britain her freedom. Closer and closer they came, all unsuspecting the danger that lurked so near.

"Let 'em have it, sir, it's no more than what's coming to 'em anyhow," said Nobby, and I knew he voiced the feelings of the crew.

"Can't be done, Clark, old man, we've got to play the game."

"Then there goes my 'opes of a nice little pub and a life ashore—why the blazes didn't I disconnect the aerial a minute sooner. It's a swell war—strike me pink if it ain't."

"Cheer up, Clark," I laughed. "Maybe I'll need a butler and housekeeper, one never knows! I'm thinking now the war is over I'll settle down on my estate in Devon."

SHAKESPEARE IS INTERNATIONAL

Mr. Archibald D. Flower Tells Rotarians That It Is the One Subject on Which All Lands Agree

"Rotary is becoming more and more international, and so is Shakespeare International, as it is the one subject on which all countries can agree. Just as Rotary is striving to promote world peace, so in Stratford-on-Avon we have the home of the great master singer of the English language, the meeting place, the point of agreement, the key to the peace of the world."

Thus spoke Mr. Archibald D. Flower, chairman of the Board of Governors, Shakespeare Memorial Theatre, Stratford-on-Avon, in addressing members of the Victoria Rotary Club at their weekly luncheon session yesterday, in the ballroom of the Empress Hotel. The speaker-guest, who was heartily received, was introduced to the gathering by Rotarian Edwin Tomlin, past president of the local Rotary organization.

GLAD TO BE IN VICTORIA

Mr. Flower expressed his pleasure at being back in Victoria again, recalling that he was present at the twenty-second meeting of the Victoria Rotary Club, which was held on April 13, 1914, at the Westholme Hotel.

The speaker contended that if William Shakespeare had lived to-day he would have qualified as a 100-per-cent Rotarian. His code of conduct, his efficient action and lofty idealism would have ably equipped him for membership in the ranks of Rotary. He was so versatile that he could qualify for admission into Rotary in practically any classification.

"I want you to think of Shakespeare as a good Rotarian, a fine sportsman, a great lover of humanity, and one who influenced the life of everyone. Throughout his plays you will find his great kindness, affection, tolerance, sense of duty, and sense of humor. Whatever our job or work in life is, we will perform it better if we know our Shakespeare," said Mr. Flower.

PURPOSE OF VISIT HERE

Mr. Flower stated that he was on his present tour for the purpose of enlisting sympathy for the rebuilding of the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre, and particularly in connection with the proposal of bringing out next year the Shakespearean Festival Players in a series of productions similar to those that were staged at the theatre prior to its destruction by fire. He said he had received wonderful encouragement for the project in the cities he had visited since he left the Old Country.

"I hope to meet you all again here in January, 1929, and hope you will have the privilege of seeing a right down good company presenting Shakespearean plays," concluded Mr. Flower, amid applause.

Mr. James H. Fletcher, president of the Rotary Club, in extending the thanks of the gathering to Mr. Flower, said he hoped that it would not be another fourteen years before Victoria Rotarians met him again, and assured him that the Shakespearean Players would be warmly greeted when they arrived in this city.

DAMAGE DUE TO HOBO GANG

LAWLESSNESS AT HALLOWEEN IS SERIOUS QUESTION AT COURTENAY

City Council Has Busy Session With Variety of Business on the List of Agenda

COURTENAY, Nov. 10.—An echo of Halloween was heard in the City Council meeting on Tuesday night, when it was the opinion that the time had arrived when something should be done to put a stop to the lawlessness and wanton destruction of property which took place. In his report Alderman Douglas showed that it had been necessary to have barricades removed from the streets and other work done to put back gates and other property which had been removed. Alderman Pearce explained that it was not the work of young boys out for some innocent fun, but the effect of a gang of hobos who had entered one of the churches, broken the bell, smashed the electric light globes and had done other destruction, which was getting worse every year. The police, he said, were not to blame, as they could not be expected to be everywhere at the same time. Public opinion would have to demand a stop to this nonsense and it would stop. He agreed with Alderman Fielder that no one objected to seeing the children enjoy themselves at Halloween.

Alderman Douglas expressed the opinion that in some cases the difficulty was avoided by inviting all the children to the Community Hall and giving them a good time.

ROAD UPKEEP

Among the communications was a letter from Mr. W. P. Bagan, assistant district engineer of the Department of Public Works, asking what the city wished to do about continuing the arrangement between the city and the Public Works Department for the upkeep of the primary and secondary roads within the city. Alderman Pearce was of the opinion that the work done on the roads during the agreement had been very satisfactory, and on motion of Alderman Douglas, seconded by Alderman Pearce, a continuation of the arrangement was decided upon.

Alderman Pearce requested information as to the current rate of wages for men employed on the city roads. He noticed the city was paying $4 per day, when he was under the impression that the usual rate of labor was $3.50. He did not wish to be understood as being in favor of cheaper labor, but did not see why the city should pay more than other contractors for the same kind of work.

Alderman Douglas, chairman of the works committee, said that he had been instrumental in raising the wages from $3.50 to $4 per day as he was now employing picked men whereas formerly all kinds of men had been employed. Alderman Douglas also reported that it had been necessary to remove the plank sidewalk in front of Mr. Hugh Stewart's property on Union Street for the purpose of striking a grade for the concrete sidewalk. The plank which had been reduced down to the correct level. The plank taken out was being used on Walter Street, which was now becoming a much-used thoroughfare and the grade of which was rapidly becoming greatly improved.

MAPLE TREE PLANTING

He also reported the result of a trip to the Quamash River in Alderman Macdonald's car, accompanied by Mayor Mitchell. The purpose of the trip was to plant a number of maple saplings for planting at the sides of the city streets. They had pulled 300 of these trees, of which the Mayor pulled by far the largest number. A discussion arose out of Alderman Douglas' report concerning which of two street grades it was advisable for the city to work to. No definite decision was arrived at, however.

A satisfactory report from the provincial police showed there had only been two prosecutions during the past year, one under the Liquor Act, the other for running a gaming house.

The city solicitor, Mr. J. M. Mitchell, asked for instructions from the Council concerning the registration of agreements for right-of-way for the water pipeline to Comox. At the time the work was being put through it had been decided to register the agreement. Mr. R. U. Hurford now took very strong exception to the registration of his agreement as it would cloud the title. Mr. Mitchell said that the opinion that the agreement should be registered. On request of Mayor McKenzie, it was decided to leave the matter over until the next meeting.

That there is a strong desire by property owners in the business section for cement sidewalks in front of the various premises was observable from the report of Alderman Douglas, who had interviewed a number of the business men on Union Street. They were all willing to bear the expense of having sidewalks. These are C. H. Pigott, W. Sutcliffe, Mrs. A. Geldt, J. E. Anton and H. E. Wallis, making a total of 120 feet. It was decided to proceed with these improvements.

RECREATION GROUND

The matter of co-operating with the Agricultural Association in making a recreation ground of the City Auto Park and the Agricultural Association's premises was brought up once more when Mayor McKenzie reported that a committee from the association had interviewed him on the subject. The Mayor now thought it would be in order to appoint a committee from the Council to meet the other committee. Alderman Wallis asked if it would cost any money, whereupon the Mayor replied that it undoubtedly would, but he would not spend money on playing fields of some sort, and he considered the location a most suitable one, provided it was found to be large enough. The idea was agreed to be a good one, and on motion of Alderman Lloyd a committee was appointed consisting of Aldermen Douglas, Pearce and Macdonald.

Alderman Wallis told the Council that of the three hundred maple trees brought in by the Mayor and Aldermen Douglas and Macdonald, 175 had been planted along the roads and that numerous citizens had availed themselves of the opportunity of securing some of the trees left over to beautify their own premises. Alderman Fielder had planted a good row of trees along Alice Street. As far as he could tell the people in general were well pleased with the trees.

CONTRACTS ARE HARD PROBLEM

COURTENAY ALDERMEN DIS-CUSS LEGALITY OF BUSI-NESS WITH CITY

Suggestion Is to Put Matter Before Union of Municipalities of the Province

COURTENAY, Nov. 10.—A matter which from time to time comes to the surface at meetings of the City Council received a good deal of attention at the City Hall on Tuesday night, when City Solicitor J. M. Mitchell gave his opinion on the disqualification of aldermen by means of contracting with the corporation. This disqualification apparently only applied where an alderman made a contract as an individual, but not when the alderman was acting as a member of a company or another corporation.

Mr. Mitchell said the courts gave the word contract a very wide meaning, and he drew comparisons between the English courts and those of the provinces of Ontario, Quebec and British Columbia. After going through a number of cases, he was of the opinion that a member of the council was not disqualified for selling in the ordinary course of trade to the city corporation, provided there was no previous arrangement. This applied to a single instance, because, if there were more than one, the courts might decide that there was a previous arrangement. Any ratepayer who considered that the action of any alderman had been such as to disqualify him had the right to sue him in the courts. If such action was successful, the alderman was disqualified and vacated his seat and would be liable to the municipality in the sum of $2,500.

This opinion was obtained because Ald. Fielder has persistently objected to accounts sent to the council by aldermen. Ald. Fielder said that he had presented to the council by its members, and he was of the opinion that, if this was allowed to go on, it would involve thousands of dollars in British Columbia. Ald. Pearce considered the clause in the Act as a preventive against members of the council entering into contracts with the city.

Mr. Mitchell, in conclusion, thought it was a matter which might well be put before the Union of Municipalities of British Columbia with a view of getting the matter clearly defined.

FREE AND EASY

"After see, Major," said Oldtimer after the flapjacks had been stowed away where they would do most good and the old cornob was well aglow, when some of us first came to this Coast we were accustomed to fish when and where we liked and nobody interfered with anybody else, but it wasn't so very long before riverfront began to become private property in places and now and again one would hear about riparian rights and would come across some Johnny who would object to a man's fishing from the bank of the river, where that bank happened to be his property. I'm not disputing the legal rights of the matter, and wasn't then, being of a peaceable nature, and there being lots of water for everybody as a rule.

"But on that particular day I had started out for a favorite reach on the Bullitkin River (if you can guess where that is) and was working upstream without any luck when, just as I came to a pool which nearly always was good for a nice fish or two, I noticed there wasn't a fence coming right down to the bank's edge, and a notice up, 'Private Property—No Fishing,' and there in a clearing was a brand new burglar alarm and smoke coming out of the chimney indicating that the owner was at home. I left him there; that sign didn't indicate any over-zealousness of his property, and I made a detour of his property.

When I hit the river again—close to his other fence and another 'No Fishing' sign—I was just about forty yards above the very spot where I could almost swear there would be a good fish. My basket was empty and I was a little sore at having to pass up my favorite pool without a catch. Even if there was a lot of good water up the river ahead of me, I had to stop and give a hankering glance down at that deep pool at the end of the riffle where I knew there was sure to be a good 'un just waiting for a tit-bit. And then a grasshopper whirled and clattered and settled right down near my feet—and the devil got into me.

THE DEED OF SHAME

"I had a forty-yard dressed silk double-tapered line on the reel with lots of backing behind it and a good-sized Governor at the end of the cast. By standing right at the corner of the fence where there was a slight bend in the river I was able to let that governor (with the grasshopper to give it a favor and a little extra weight) downstream yard by yard until it reached, I judged, the very place I would have cast over legitimately but for the forbidding notice. I then began to reel up again very slowly, and had got in no more than a yard or two when I felt an unmistakable tug, which I answered with a moderately hard strike—and the fight was on.

"Of course I couldn't do anything but hold him hard, but the hook was big and well in his upper jaw, as it turned out, and the tackle was strong. I got in a lot of line on his first upstream rush and, by hard and heavy methods had him beaten in a few minutes. I reeled him in short and managed to slip the net under him and lift him up the bank. As I tapped him on the back of the head and laid him reverently on some bracken in the old basket, I thought I heard a sort of grunt and looked up. There, a yard or two from me, but on the other side of the fence, was a stout, middle-aged and obviously late gentleman.

"I grinned at him from the security of the other side of the fence. 'Nice fish,' I remarked as I held the beauty up for his inspection. 'Yes,' he growled, 'and a nice way to catch it, you do—poucher.'

THE KICK IN IT

"And I guess perhaps he was right. But you know, Major, I got a big kick out of catching that old three-pounder up there, even if the method was not as orthodox as I would have liked, and if you say it wasn't sport, well, even now I can't agree with you. I take it that over-zealousness of his property and a kick out of it. But I reckon if that old gent could have done what I know he was about to do, I'd have got a different kind of a kick and in another place."

When I hit the river again—close to his other fence and another 'No Fishing' sign—I was just about forty yards above the very spot where I could almost swear there would be a good fish. My basket was empty and I was a little sore at having to pass up my favorite pool without a catch. Even if there was a lot of good water up the river ahead of me, I had to stop and give a hankering glance down at that deep pool at the end of the riffle where I knew there was sure to be a good 'un just waiting for a tit-bit. And then a grasshopper whirled and clattered and settled right down near my feet—and the devil got into me.

THE DEED OF SHAME

"I had a forty-yard dressed silk double-tapered line on the reel with lots of backing behind it and a good-sized Governor at the end of the cast. By standing right at the corner of the fence where there was a slight bend in the river I was able to let that governor (with the grasshopper to give it a favor and a little extra weight) downstream yard by yard until it reached, I judged, the very place I would have cast over legitimately but for the forbidding notice. I then began to reel up again very slowly, and had got in no more than a yard or two when I felt an unmistakable tug, which I answered with a moderately hard strike—and the fight was on.

"Of course I couldn't do anything but hold him hard, but the hook was big and well in his upper jaw, as it turned out, and the tackle was strong. I got in a lot of line on his first upstream rush and, by hard and heavy methods had him beaten in a few minutes. I reeled him in short and managed to slip the net under him and lift him up the bank. As I tapped him on the back of the head and laid him reverently on some bracken in the old basket, I thought I heard a sort of grunt and looked up. There, a yard or two from me, but on the other side of the fence, was a stout, middle-aged and obviously late gentleman.

"I grinned at him from the security of the other side of the fence. 'Nice fish,' I remarked as I held the beauty up for his inspection. 'Yes,' he growled, 'and a nice way to catch it, you do—poucher.'

THE KICK IN IT

"And I guess perhaps he was right. But you know, Major, I got a big kick out of catching that old three-pounder up there, even if the method was not as orthodox as I would have liked, and if you say it wasn't sport, well, even now I can't agree with you. I take it that over-zealousness of his property and a kick out of it. But I reckon if that old gent could have done what I know he was about to do, I'd have got a different kind of a kick and in another place."

When I hit the river again—close to his other fence and another 'No Fishing' sign—I was just about forty yards above the very spot where I could almost swear there would be a good fish. My basket was empty and I was a little sore at having to pass up my favorite pool without a catch. Even if there was a lot of good water up the river ahead of me, I had to stop and give a hankering glance down at that deep pool at the end of the riffle where I knew there was sure to be a good 'un just waiting for a tit-bit. And then a grasshopper whirled and clattered and settled right down near my feet—and the devil got into me.

Fishy Tales From Vancouver's Isle

In Which Oldtimer Confesses, Though Apparently Without Repentance, to a Serious Lapse From the Orthodox—He Gets "A Kick" Out of the Capture of a "Big 'Un'" of a Different Nature From That, Perhaps, Deserved.

By RICHARD L. POOCK

"And there's a fish, Dick, to which I'll bet a story belongs!"

"What fish is that, Major?" rejoined Oldtimer as he turned round from the tin stove of a little old cabin nestling in a still, secluded spot in the woods within easy distance of Victoria and paused in his job of frying the supper flapjacks.

The Major, while waiting for the culinary operations to be completed, had been examining some of the trophies of the chase and other curiosities scattered haphazard on and around the walls of the cabin, and had come to a standstill opposite the paper profile of a trout of what must have been goodly weight and dimensions, which was pinned above one of the little windows.

"Oh! you're looking at that old cutthroat, are you, Major?" Well, yes, there is a bit of a story attached to that old boy. A pretty fish he was, that paper model will give you some idea of his size, and he weighed just exactly three pounds when I got him home. I got quite a bit of sport landing that beauty, but I haven't laughed to myself about it, though I suppose the joke was on me to a certain extent. But I'll tell you about it, if you like, after class."

FREE AND EASY

"After see, Major," said Oldtimer after the flapjacks had been stowed away where they would do most good and the old cornob was well aglow, when some of us first came to this Coast we were accustomed to fish when and where we liked and nobody interfered with anybody else, but it wasn't so very long before riverfront began to become private property in places and now and again one would hear about riparian rights and would come across some Johnny who would object to a man's fishing from the bank of the river, where that bank happened to be his property. I'm not disputing the legal rights of the matter, and wasn't then, being of a peaceable nature, and there being lots of water for everybody as a rule.

"But on that particular day I had started out for a favorite reach on the Bullitkin River (if you can guess where that is) and was working upstream without any luck when, just as I came to a pool which nearly always was good for a nice fish or two, I noticed there wasn't a fence coming right down to the bank's edge, and a notice up, 'Private Property—No Fishing,' and there in a clearing was a brand new burglar alarm and smoke coming out of the chimney indicating that the owner was at home. I left him there; that sign didn't indicate any over-zealousness of his property, and I made a detour of his property.

When I hit the river again—close to his other fence and another 'No Fishing' sign—I was just about forty yards above the very spot where I could almost swear there would be a good fish. My

MARKET SHOWS NERVOUSNESS

RENEWAL OF SELLING PRESSURE IN FINAL HOUR CAUSES CONFUSION

United States Treasury Issue Subscribed Twice Over—German Loan Taken Promptly

NEW YORK, Nov. 10.—Extreme nervousness characterized the trading in today's irregular stock market. An irregular opening was followed by an interval of strength on publication of the unexpectedly large increase, nearly 200,000 tons in unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation, but a renewal of selling pressure against some of the leaders in the final hour resulted in widespread confusion. Total sales did not reach one and three-quarter million shares.

United States Steel common closed 1/2% higher at 135 1/2, after having sold a point above that figure, and General Motors showed a net loss of 1/4 at 128 1/2 after having sold at 130 1/2.

Call money continued in plentiful supply at the renewal figure of 3/4 per cent. The weekly Federal Reserve report of brokers' loans showed an increase of $12,824,000, bringing the total to $3,384,529,000.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged. Mixed price movements characterized the foreign exchange market. Italian lire sagged below 5 1/2 and Japanese yen broke about 15 points to 46.04, or close to the year's low level.

Spanish pesetas again rallied above the 17 cent level, and demand sterling ruled around $4.86 1/2.

A rather strong bond market followed the announcement that the books on the Treasury Department new $400,000,000 issue of 3 1/2 per cent certificates had been closed.

The baby's troubles are mostly constipation, flatulence, enlarged tonsils and adenoids, bronchitis, worms and skin rashes. Every one of these troubles are directly due to faulty diet and no other cause. As the child grows older these same troubles persist with perhaps the additional fault that the child is either underweight or overweight.

These chronic disorders and symptoms can be entirely prevented by careful feeding habits, and also can be easily cured if parents will take the time and trouble to study the science of food chemistry and conscientiously force their children to follow the proper dietetic rules.

I know from my experience with dieting thousands of children that it is impossible for a child to develop enlarged tonsils or adenoids unless he uses too many starches or sugars. When these foods are eliminated or greatly reduced and the proteins and green vegetables increased, the tonsils always reduce to their normal size, and can then properly perform their mysterious function of assisting in the balancing of the metabolism of the growing child.

Bronchitis is caused principally by the same indiscriminate use of

Science Finds a Better Way in the New Waterless Cooker

Vegetables and fruits cooked in the improved Waterless Cooker are delicious, retaining much of their natural, fresh flavor; and meats prepared in this modern way are not cooked too much, yet they are rendered tender by the moist atmosphere, which makes even a tough roast most appetizing.

Ask to see the Waterless Cooker in the Hardware Department, Lower Main Floor.
